Strategic Tools Sold To Russia, Executive Says

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Senators investigating East-West trade were told today Great Britain and other allies, with U.S. permission, are selling Russia the means to build "the most modern weapons" of war.

Ralph R. Baldenhofer, a Midwestern industrialist and sometime government consultant, contended it would be "far better" to furnish the Soviets guided missiles or planes.

Strategic production tools can be used over and over again to make deadly implements of war, he said, while a missile "can come back at us only once."

Baldenhofer testified before the Senate Investigations subcommittee at the start of hearings called to check into the sale of potential war materials to the Soviet bloc.

"Obstructions" Charged

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), the subcommittee chairman, charged at the outset that Eisenhower administration officials have put "obstructions" in the path of the inquiry.

He declared the Defense Department had failed to make available one of its machine tool experts for testimony and said the subcommittee would resort to a subpoena if necessary. Later, however, he said the department had agreed to "cooperate" and that the expert, John Williams, would be available for testimony tomorrow.

McClellan protested that "heads of departments," whom he did not name, are holding back information on the extent of East-West trade. The subcommittee chairman did not mention it, but the State Department reportedly frowned on public hearings at this time lest the repercussions damage relations with Western allies.

'54 Agreement Eased Curbs

He said the subcommittee wants to know all about a 1954 agreement easing export curbs and whether the United States is permitting other countries to send items to Russia which are embargoed here.

The subcommittee heard from its first witness that Russia is getting copper wire, useful in war industry, from Great Britain. "We must assume," said Jerome S. Adlerman, that some of the wire was produced from metal mined in Rhodesia with the help of U.S. foreign aid funds.

CLAMS UP — Morris Levine, Chicago, a former government employe, appeared yesterday before the House un-American Activities Committee in Washington. Levine said he is not now a Communist but declined to answer questions about past associations. He testified that he worked as a civilian statistician and economist at Army headquarters in Tokyo from 1946 to 1950. (AP Photofax)

Health Of Ike Seen Issue If He Says 'Yes'

Eisenhower Would Become 'Fair Game' Once He Announces

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Leading Democrats said today President Eisenhower's health will become a prime campaign issue if he decides to seek a second term.

Eisenhower, vacationing in Georgia, is expected to announce shortly after his return next week whether he will run again. Most Republicans and many Democrats believe that because of yesterday's reassuring report on his recovery from a Sept. 24 heart attack his answer will be "yes."

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala), the 1952 Democratic vice presidential nominee, said that if Eisenhower does become a candidate again "I don't see how his health can help but become an issue." Sparkman stuck to his belief, however, that Eisenhower won't run.

People Bound To Talk

"The President's health is bound to be an issue because of all that he himself has said about it," Sparkman said in an interview. "People will be talking about his chance of surviving four more years in the White House. It's what people talk about that makes issues."

Sparkman said he doesn't believe the Democrats will embark on any planned campaign of questioning Eisenhower's ability to withstand four more years of strain at his job.

Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash) said Eisenhower will be "fair game" for criticism once he announces. Magnuson is a candidate for re-election.

Morse Would Raise Issue

Sen. Morse (D-Ore) said that during his own reelection campaign he will be talking about the "disadvantage of having a part time President."

Sen. Curtis (R-Neb) said that if the Democrats raise the issue of the President's health, the Republicans will "invite them to consult the medical records."

"The Democrats practiced deception in 1944 when they propped up a corpse and ran Roosevelt for re-election," he said. "If President Eisenhower runs again, and I think he will, there will be none of this deception."

Senate Group Will Consider Action Today

Bridges Endorses Broad Investigation Of Lobby Pressures

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) announced plans tonight for a sweeping investigation of senatorial campaign contributions.

After a conference with Democratic leaders of the Senate, Gore said he had called a meeting of his Senate Elections subcommittee for 10 a.m. tomorrow to recommend the broad inquiry into "campaign contributions, federal elections and any evidence of corrupt practices which may be revealed."

A short time before Sen. Bridges (R-NH), chairman of the Senate's Republican Policy Committee, issued a statement urging an expanded investigation of lobby pressures exerted on senators during their consideration of the natural gas bill.

George Cool To Bridges' Idea

Bridges said he thought the work ought to be done by the special committee of four senators appointed to look into a $2,500 campaign contribution turned down by Sen. Case (R-SD) in advance of the vote on the gas legislation. This came from the president of an oil and gas company favoring the legislation, but Bridges said there was "a great deal of pressure" against the bill, and said this should be investigated.

But Sen. George (D-Ga), chairman of the special committee, threw cold water on the idea of enlarging that committee's investigation. He said he knew of nothing now to justify it and added that he expected the committee to submit a report on the Case incident next week.

The committee held a series of hearings within the last week to try to determine whether the $2,500 offered Case was an attempt to influence his vote.

Senators Confer

Gore conferred with Sen. Clements of Kentucky, acting Democratic leader, and spent an hour with George before announcing his plans for the broader inquiry.

George reported he had told Gore that "unless something of a startling nature occurs, which I do not now foresee, I hope we can make a report to the Senate next week ... and ask to be discharged."

If the Senate should decide to expand his committee's authority for the purpose of a general investigation, George said, he would not be able to serve because he has too many other things to do.

Gore said the inquiry he has in mind was of a scope "far wider than the gas bill," and he estimated it would "run throughout the year."

Woman Drowns In Flash Flood At Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 15 (AP)—A flash flood that ran about five feet deep swirled through this resort city in the early hours today, sweeping one woman to her death and swamping downtown business houses.

Floating lumber clogged a key storm sewer and the rising water smashed cars against each other and pushed through windows and doors, flooding shops in the city's main street.

Most of the business establishments, although left with a rug of mud when the water subsided, were open for business this afternoon.

About the same time, tornadic winds pounded an area of north-central Arkansas, about 60 miles north of here killing one person and injuring six others.

Start Of Tourist Season

The torrent at Hot Springs, result of heavy rains that began shortly after midnight, came at the start of the tourist season in this west Arkansas city of about 38,000 permanent residents. Hotels and motels were jammed with visitors, most of them on hand for the opening of Oaklawn Park's 30-day horse racing meeting Feb. 25.

Dead in the flood is Mrs. Hollie Barker, 38-year-old Nome, Alaska, woman who was here with her husband prospecting for uranium.

She and her husband, sleeping in their car at a campsite about five miles northeast of here, sought refuge on top of the car when the flood struck. Both were swept off the car. Her husband grabbed a tree. Mrs. Barker's body was found about a quarter-mile from the camp.

Damage Estimates Vary

Barker, treated for shock at a Hot Springs hospital, said he sat in the tree about four hours, until the water subsided, then walked about a mile to a farm house for help.

Estimates of the property damage varied. Insurance officials said the loss would be about $250,000. Gus Dickson of radio station KWFC at Hot Springs said, however, that a door-to-door poll of downtown merchants indicated the damage would total about 1¼ million dollars.

President Goes Hunting As He Starts Vacation

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 15 (AP)—President Eisenhower came to this piney woods region of southern Georgia today for about a week's vacation—and quite likely he will decide what to tell the nation regarding that big second term question.

The beaming President got a warm reception from the folks of the area just 24 hours after getting a cheering medical report from his doctors—a report that in their opinion he is physically able to serve another term if he wants to make the try.

Applauding crowds turned out to welcome him and Eisenhower kept busy waving greetings. He rode in a White House limousine with a top which slides back, permitting him to stand so the crowd could see him.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower are the guests here of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and his wife at the Humphrey plantation, 7½ miles outside Thomasville.

The Eisenhowers and the Humphreys traveled from Washington aboard the President's private plane, Columbine III, which landed at nearby Moultrie, Ga., at 1:26 p.m., after a flight of two and three-quarters hours. Then they motored 43 miles to the plantation.

Hitched to a rubber-tired, red-wheeled hunting wagon when Eisenhower arrived were two white mules—ready to take him off to try his luck at quail hunting. The President visited the plantation in February the last two years and both times he brought down some birds.

Eisenhower and Humphrey changed to hunting togs within 15 minutes after getting to the plantation, then rode off to the quail grounds.

Westinghouse Balks At Strike Study Proposal

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 15 (AP)—Westinghouse Electric Corp. today flatly refused to participate with a fact-finding board set up by the governors of five states to study a 122-day strike of 44,000 workers at 30 plants.

In telegrams to the governors, Gwilym A. Price, Westinghouse board chairman and president, asserted management "cannot delegate to outsiders ... the right to determine the fundamental terms of the union agreement under which Westinghouse must live for some years. ..."

The rejection by Westinghouse followed more picketing violence at the company's Sharon, Pa., plant where some 100 pickets massed for the third straight day.

Police said an auto was overturned, cars were stoned and windows in the plant were broken. No arrests were made and there were no reports of anyone injured.

Mayor Michael J. Dunn, himself a member of striking IUE Local 617, asked Gov. Leader to "assign at least four uniformed state policemen to constant patrol of the Sharon Plant."

Dunn thus joined Sheriff Richard Knowles and the city police chief, William Stuart, in asking the governor for state police aid.

The mayor, a Democrat, said he felt the "situation is reaching a point where the men are in a nasty mood. Our own police have been worked pretty hard—a lot of overtime and not much sleep. We need help."

The striking AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers had pledged full cooperation with the two-man fact-finding board named last Sunday by Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania.

Leader had the support of Govs. Averell Harriman, New York; Abraham Ribicoff, Connecticut; Robert Mehner, New Jersey; and William Marland, West Virginia.

Gov. Leader, who had requested both sides to take part in the inquiry, had no immediate comment on the Westinghouse rejection. However, he had said earlier the study would be made regardless of the company's position. Final plans haven't been formulated.

British-Cypress Accord Reached

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Feb. 15 (AP)—Informed sources said today that Britain has offered complete internal self-government to Cyprus with defense and foreign affairs remaining under Britain's control.

They said Archbishop Makarios, leader of the enosis — union with Greece movement — and Gov. Sir John Harding have agreed on the conditions set by Britain but are withholding official announcements until next Tuesday.

This is to avoid possible influence on next Sunday's heated Greek election, the sources said.

But, even though it has not yet been announced officially, the agreement already is under Communist attack locally.

The accord specifies that in an undefined "transition period" while defense and foreign affairs still will be controlled by London, there will be no restriction on British military bases on the island stronghold, the sources said. The transitional period is to lead to ultimate self-determination, they added.

The Cypriots are to have an independent Parliament elected by proportional representation. All acts of the Parliament automatically will be approved by the governor, who will have no authority in domestic affairs unless they affect defense or foreign affairs.

Pedestrians Flee As Two Manhole Covers 'Take Off'

CLEVELAND, Feb. 15 (AP)—Two manhole covers shot 150 feet into the air on Public Square today, shattered against the Cleveland Terminal tower and fell in pieces among 50 terrified pedestrians.

Two women were taken to St. Vincent Charity Hospital, one suffering from a wrenched back and the other from shock, police said.

The covers struck high on the tower above the five double doors at the entrance. As the pieces thudded down on the sidewalk below, the pedestrians ran into doorways.

Police said the accident was due to a long-smouldering fire in an underground tunnel used by the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. The fire caused gas and resulted in an explosion, police said.

U.S. Court Rules La. Segregation Laws Not Valid

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 15 (AP)—A three-judge federal court today threw out the segregation laws that Louisiana had devised to sidestep the U.S. Supreme Court ban on separate white and Negro public schools.

After today's decision, U.S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright ordered New Orleans to desegregate its public schools "with all deliberate speed." He emphasized this did not mean mixing of classes would come "overnight or even in a year or more."

Dr. Clarence Scheps, president of the New Orleans school board, said, "The board's next step will be to appeal the decision.

"The board has committed itself to keep segregation, if possible."

Separate Schools Ordered

In 1954, after the Supreme Court decision, the Louisiana Legislature passed a series of laws that segregated schools under the state police powers.

One act ordered separate schools in order "to promote and protect public health, morals, better education and the peace and good order in the state." The act specifically declares segregation is "not because of race."

But the three-judge federal court today ruled that the police power provision does not save the laws from being declared invalid. The court ruled that the laws were unconstitutional.

Injunction Granted

Judge Wright granted a temporary injunction against continued segregation in New Orleans public schools. He told the school board to mix classes "after such a time as may be necessary to make arrangements for admission of children to such schools on a racially nondiscriminatory basis with all deliberate speed."

The judge added that "the problems attendant desegregation in the Deep South are considerably more serious than generally appreciated in some sections of our country.

"It is a problem which will require the utmost patience, understanding, generosity and forbearance from all of us of whatever race."

Europe Floods By Slight Thaw

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP)—A slight thaw started floods in some of Europe's icy rivers tonight. The moderating weather heaped new miseries on a continent still suffering in some places from a record cold wave that has claimed 504 lives in less than four weeks.

Thaws in Germany and Yugoslavia coincided with new blizzards in northern England, biting cold elsewhere and snow as far southward as sunny Sicily in the mid-Mediterranean.

The Rhine in Germany and scores of rivers in Yugoslavia broke from their banks.

Flood waters poured into the streets of Lorch and Lorchhausen on Germany's Rhine. An ice jam at storied Lorelei Rock backed up waters over the main highway along the Rhine. The highway was closed to traffic.

Belgrade radio estimated the rampaging Strumica River in Yugoslavia already had caused a million dollars damage. Two persons were drowned. The railway town of Stalac was partly under water.

A tidal wave damaged the small fishing ports of Sesimbra and Albufeira in southern Portugal.

88 Killed In New Africa Violence

ALGIERS, Algeria, Feb. 15 (AP)—French sources said violence in Tunisia and Algeria killed 88 persons in the 24 hours ending at dusk tonight.

Reports from Algeria's Nemntcha Mountains said about 40 rebels have been killed there in a continuing mop-up by French troops. The action got under way yesterday.

Another 26 persons are known to have died in other parts of Algeria. These included 8 soldiers, 10 rebels killed in skirmises and 8 Moslems assassinated by terrorists.

The trouble in Tunisia was reported between supporters of moderate political leader Habib Bourguiba and followers of extremist Salah Ben Youssef, who is now in exile in Libya.

The Bourguiba partisans were said to have surprised a band of rebels near the Algerian frontier late last night. The rebels lost 20 dead. Two members of the pro-Bourguiba band were killed.

Franco Fires Two Of Cabinet

MADRID, Spain, Feb. 15 (AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco today fired two monarchy-members of his Cabinet as a result of last week's student riots.

An official source said decrees dismissing Raimundo Fernandez Cuesta and Joaquin Ruiz-Gimenez and appointing successors were sent to the Official Bulletin for publication tomorrow. This procedure makes them law.

Ruiz-Gimenez is education minister and Fernandez Cuesta is secretary-general of the Falange party, the only party permitted in Spain.

Franco reportedly considered the battles between the students and party adherents showed neither minister could control the forces under his supervision.

Auto Worker Layoffs Near 50,000 Mark

DETROIT, Feb. 15 (AP) — Announced layoffs among the nation's auto workers are pushing up toward 50,000 as the industry continues efforts to reduce inventories to a level in keeping with retail demand.

Cutting most deeply into its working force in this move is Chrysler Corp., which last year made an oustanding comeback in production and sales. Since mid-December, when the industry's stockpiles began to accumulate, Chrysler has laid off 30,700 of its work force. In addition Packard has idled 5,500; Ford 4,600; General Motors 3,950 and American Motors (Nash-Hudson), 800.

Noses Bloodied As French Assembly Deputies Clash

PARIS, Feb. 15 (AP) — Poujadist and Leftist deputies broke up a session of the French National Assembly tonight with a hard-slugging floor battle for possession of the speaker's rostrum. At least three noses were bloodied.

Opposing assemblymen hurled voting urns and stools in a general free-for-all accented with shouted insults, and the noise of desks being slammed and pounded.

Assembly President Andre Letroquer vainly called for order, then cleared the galleries and suspended the session.

At the height of the excitement, a spectator in the public gallery fired four blank shots from a referee's pistol. Guards quickly seized him, a 32-year-old follower of Pierre Poujade, leader of the French antitaxation movement.

The spectator struggled with the guards and finally was subdued, also with a bloody nose. He was taken to a police station for investigation.

A Poujadist, Jean Damasio of the Seine Department (County), precipitated the floor fight by dashing to the rostrum just as a Communist deputy, Robert Manceau, was heading for the speaker's stand from the other side.

The two men tussled on the stand for the right to speak. From one side, Communists and some Socialists and, from the other, Poujadists rushed to the rostrum and the fight was on.

The chamber quickly was filled with a confused din. Ushers who attempted to interfere were attacked by the deputies. One of the assemblymen who suffered a bloody nose was Jean Dides, an independent pro-Poujadist, who was led out to the lobbies with blood streaming down his face.

Rob Bank Of $45,000

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 15 (AP)—Two masked bandits held up a branch of the Manufacturers & Traders Trust Co. today just before closing time and a preliminary check indicated they escaped with about $45,000.

Police said the holdup, eighth in 13 months in this Canadian border city's area, had the earmarks of being "very well planned."

The two men, their heads covered with stocking masks, walked into the Clinton-Bailey branch of the bank just before 2:30 p.m. One held the nine employes at bay while the other looted the tellers' desks.

"Eva," Device For Seeing In Darkness, Is Unveiled

BOSTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—A scientist unveiled for civilians today—for the first time—a device for seeing in complete darkness.

"Eva" is the nickname affectionately bestowed upon the apparatus, which looks something like an ordinary, professional camera—on a tripod. It not only enables seeing without any light at all, but it takes pictures in color. Eva can easily see anything, from a human being to a blacked-out city, at night.

Dr. Bruce Billings, physicist and general manager of Baird Associates, Inc., showed "Eva"—otherwise known as an Evaporograph—to the directors of American Research and Development Corp. Baird Associates, which developed Eva, is an affiliate of AR&D.

What is Eva's secret—only now declassified by the U. S. Signal Corps, one of Eva's sponsors?

Instead of focussing reflected light, like ordinary cameras, Eva gathers the heat radiation sent out in varying degrees and wave lengths by various objects. And it focusses these radiations on a very thin, uniform film of oil.

To understand how the oil film works, Dr. Billings uses this explanation: You've seen gasoline or other forms of oil spread in a thin varicolored film upon a puddle in the street. The varying, iridescent colors of that oil film come from the different thicknesses of that thin covering of oil on the water.

Inside Eva, such a film is maintained on a plastic membrane. And as the heat radiations are focussed on the oil film, molecules evaporate from the oil surface in proportion to the temperatures focused on the various parts of the film. With white light, you can look in and see this image in color formed on the small membrane. And a little camera built into Eva takes color pictures of the image.

Knowland's Name In Minn. Primary

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 15 (AP)—The name of Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) was entered in the March 20 Minnesota presidential primary today in what his supporters called an "insurance" filing.

The Knowland filing "is not against the President," said John G. Alexander, Minneapolis attorney who submitted petitions for a full slate of 25 delegates.

"It is more in the nature of an insurance against two things, first, having no Republican contest; and second, having to passively submit to the filing of an unwanted favorite-son candidate in the event of Ike's withdrawal.

Alexander declined to explain what he meant by "unwanted favorite-son."

It not only enables seeing without any light at all, but it takes pictures in color. Eva can easily see anything, from a human being to a blacked-out city, at night.

Dr. Bruce Billings, physicist and general manager of Baird Associates, Inc., showed "Eva"—otherwise known as an Evaporograph—to the directors of American Research and Development Corp. Baird Associates, which developed Eva, is an affiliate of AR&D.

What is Eva's secret—only now declassified by the U. S. Signal Corps, one of Eva's sponsors?

Instead of focussing reflected light, like ordinary cameras, Eva gathers the heat radiation sent out in varying degrees and wave lengths by various objects. And it focusses these radiations on a very thin, uniform film of oil.

To understand how the oil film works, Dr. Billings uses this explanation: You've seen gasoline or other forms of oil spread in a thin varicolored film upon a puddle in the street. The varying, iridescent colors of that oil film come from the different thicknesses of that thin covering of oil on the water.

Inside Eva, such a film is maintained on a plastic membrane. And as the heat radiations are focussed on the various parts of the film. With white light, you can look in and see this image in color formed on the small membrane. And a little camera built into Eva takes color pictures of the image.

Health Of Ike Seen Issue If He Says 'Yes'

Eisenhower Would Become 'Fair Game' Once He Announces

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Leading Democrats said today President Eisenhower's health will become a prime campaign issue if he decides to seek a second term.

Eisenhower, vacationing in Georgia, is expected to announce shortly after his return next week whether he will run again. Most Republicans and many Democrats believe that because of yesterday's reassuring report on his recovery from a Sept. 24 heart attack his answer will be "yes."

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala), the 1952 Democratic vice presidential nominee, said that if Eisenhower does become a candidate again "I don't see how his health can help but become an issue." Sparkman stuck to his belief, however, that Eisenhower won't run.

People Bound To Talk

"The President's health is bound to be an issue because of all that he himself has said about it," Sparkman said in an interview. "People will be talking about his chance of surviving four more years in the White House. It's what people talk about that makes issues."

Sparkman said he doesn't believe the Democrats will embark on any planned campaign of questioning Eisenhower's ability to withstand four more years of strain at his job.

Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash) said Eisenhower will be "fair game" for criticism once he announces. Magnuson is a candidate for re-election.

Morse Would Raise Issue

Sen. Morse (D-Ore) said that during his own reelection campaign he will be talking about the "disadvantage of having a part time President."

Sen. Curtis (R-Neb) said that if the Democrats raise the issue of the President's health, the Republicans will "invite them to consult the medical records."

"The Democrats practiced deception in 1944 when they propped up a corpse and ran Roosevelt for re-election," he said. "If President Eisenhower runs again, and I think he will, there will be none of this deception."

British-Cypress Accord Reached

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Feb. 15 (AP)—Informed sources said today that Britain has offered complete internal self-government to Cyprus with defense and foreign affairs remaining under Britain's control.

They said Archbishop Makarios, leader of the enosis — union with Greece movement — and Gov. Sir John Harding have agreed on the conditions set by Britain but are withholding official announcements until next Tuesday.

This is to avoid possible influence on next Sunday's heated Greek election, the sources said.

But, even though it has not yet been announced officially, the agreement already is under Communist attack locally.

The accord specifies that in an undefined "transition period" while defense and foreign affairs still will be controlled by London, there will be no restriction on British military bases on the island stronghold, the sources said. The transitional period is to lead to ultimate self-determination, they added.

The Cypriots are to have an independent Parliament elected by proportional representation. All acts of the Parliament automatically will be approved by the governor, who will have no authority in domestic affairs unless they affect defense or foreign affairs.

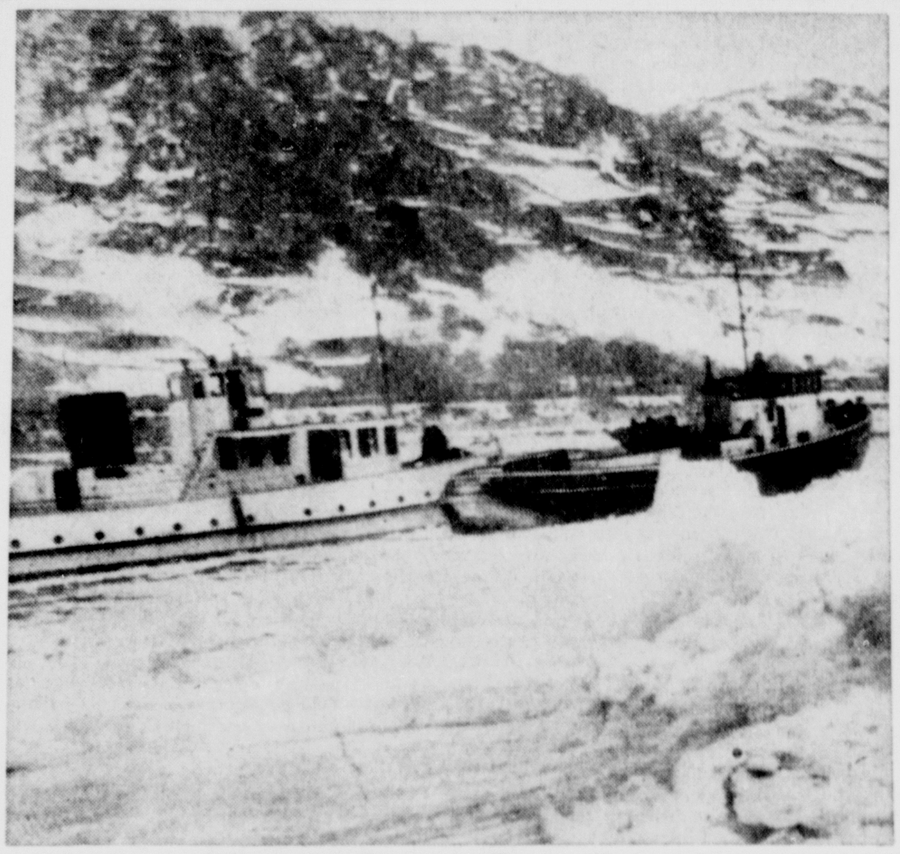
Knowland's Name In Minn. Primary

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 15 (AP)—The name of Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) was entered in the March 20 Minnesota presidential primary today in what his supporters called an "insurance" filing.

The Knowland filing "is not against the President," said John G. Alexander, Minneapolis attorney who submitted petitions for a full slate of 25 delegates.

"It is more in the nature of an insurance against two things, first, having no Republican contest; and second, having to passively submit to the filing of an unwanted favorite-son candidate in the event of Ike's withdrawal.

Alexander declined to explain what he meant by "unwanted favorite-son."



Rhine River Roadblock

A German icebreaker at right tries to clear a pasage for a barge stuck in the frozen Rhine River as traffic on the waterway nears a complete standstill in the current frigid wave. A slight thaw yesterday started floods in some of Europe's icy rivers. The record cold wave has claimed 504 lives in less than four weeks.

Westinghouse Balks At Strike Study Proposal

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 15 (AP)—Westinghouse Electric Corp. today flatly refused to participate with a fact-finding board set up by the governors of five states to study a 122-day strike of 44,000 workers at 30 plants.

In telegrams to the governors, Gwilym A. Price, Westinghouse board chairman and president, asserted management "cannot delegate to outsiders ... the right to determine the fundamental terms of the union agreement under which Westinghouse must live for some years. ..."

The rejection by Westinghouse followed more picketing violence at the company's Sharon, Pa., plant where some 100 pickets massed for the third straight day.

Police said an auto was overturned, cars were stoned and windows in the plant were broken. No arrests were made and there were no reports of anyone injured.

Mayor Michael J. Dunn, himself a member of striking IUE Local 617, asked Gov. Leader to "assign at least four uniformed state policemen to constant patrol of the Sharon Plant."

Dunn thus joined Sheriff Richard Knowles and the city police chief, William Stuart, in asking the governor for state police aid.

The mayor, a Democrat, said he felt the "situation is reaching a point where the men are in a nasty mood. Our own police have been worked pretty hard—a lot of overtime and not much sleep. We need help."

The striking AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers had pledged full cooperation with the two-man fact-finding board named last Sunday by Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania.

Leader had the support of Govs. Averell Harriman, New York; Abraham Ribicoff, Connecticut; Robert Mehner, New Jersey; and William Marland, West Virginia.

Gov. Leader, who had requested both sides to take part in the inquiry, had no immediate comment on the Westinghouse rejection. However, he had said earlier the study would be made regardless of the company's position. Final plans haven't been formulated.

Auto Worker Layoffs Near 50,000 Mark

DETROIT, Feb. 15 (AP) — Announced layoffs among the nation's auto workers are pushing up toward 50,000 as the industry continues efforts to reduce inventories to a level in keeping with retail demand.

Cutting most deeply into its working force in this move is Chrysler Corp., which last year made an outstanding comeback in production and sales. Since mid-December, when the industry's stockpiles began to accumulate, Chrysler has laid off 30,700 of its work force. In addition Packard has idled 5,500; Ford 4,600; General Motors 3,950 and American Motors (Nash-Hudson), 800.

LAGOS, Nigeria, Feb. 15 (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II at the end of her royal tour today expressed hope for a long partnership between Britain and Nigeria.

Pedestrians Flee As Two Manhole Covers 'Take Off'

CLEVELAND, Feb. 15 (AP)—Two manhole covers shot 150 feet into the air on Public Square today, shattered against the Cleveland Terminal tower and fell in pieces among 50 terrified pedestrians.

Two women were taken to St. Vincent Charity Hospital, one suffering from a wrenched back and the other from shock, police said.

The covers struck, high on the tower above the five double doors at the entrance. As the pieces thudded down on the sidewalk below, the pedestrians ran into doorways.

Police said the accident was due to a long-smouldering fire in an underground tunnel used by the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. The fire caused gas and resulted in an explosion, police said.

Europe Floods By Slight Thaw

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP)—A slight thaw started floods in some of Europe's icy rivers tonight. The moderating weather heaped new miseries on a continent still suffering in some places from a record cold wave that has claimed 504 lives in less than four weeks.

Thaws in Germany and Yugoslavia coincided with new blizzards in northern England, biting cold elsewhere and snow as far southward as sunny Sicily in the mid-Mediterranean.

The Rhine in Germany and scores of rivers in Yugoslavia broke from their banks.

Flood waters poured into the streets of Lorch and Lorchhausen on Germany's Rhine. An ice jam at storied Lorelei Rock backed up waters over the main highway along the Rhine. The highway was closed to traffic.

Belgrade radio estimated the rampaging Strumica River in Yugoslavia already had caused a million dollars damage. Two persons were drowned. The railway town of Stalac was partly under water.

A tidal wave damaged the small fishing ports of Sesimbra and Albufeira in southern Portugal.

Noses Bloodied As French Assembly Deputies Clash

PARIS, Feb. 15 (AP) — Poujadist and Leftist deputies broke up a session of the French National Assembly tonight with a hard-slugging floor battle for possession of the speaker's rostrum. At least three noses were bloodied.

Opposing assemblymen hurled voting urns and stools in a general free-for-all accented with shouted insults, and the noise of desks being slammed and pounded.

Assembly President Andre Letroquer vainly called for order, then cleared the galleries and suspended the session.

At the height of the excitement, a spectator in the public gallery fired four blank shots from a referee's pistol. Guards quickly seized him, a 32-year-old follower of Pierre Poujade, leader of the French antitaxation movement.

The spectator struggled with the guards and finally was subdued, also with a bloody nose. He was taken to a police station for investigation.

A Poujadist, Jean Damasio of the Seine Department (County), precipitated the floor fight by dashing to the rostrum just as a Communist deputy, Robert Manceau, was heading for the speaker's stand from the other side.

The two men tussled on the stand for the right to speak. From one side, Communists and some Socialists and, from the other, Poujadists rushed to the rostrum and the fight was on.

The chamber quickly was filled with a confused din. Ushers who attempted to interfere were attacked by the deputies. One of the assemblymen who suffered a bloody nose was Jean Dides, an independent pro-Poujadist, who was led out to the lobbies with blood streaming down his face.

U.S. Court Rules La. Segregation Laws Not Valid

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 15 (AP)—A three-judge federal court today threw out the segregation laws that Louisiana had devised to sidestep the U.S. Supreme Court ban on separate white and Negro public schools.

After today's decision, U.S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright ordered New Orleans to desegregate its public schools "with all deliberate speed." He emphasized this did not mean mixing of classes would come "overnight or even in a year or more."

Dr. Clarence Scheps, president of the New Orleans school board, said, "The board's next step will be to appeal the decision.

"The board has committed itself to keep segregation, if possible."

Separate Schools Ordered

In 1954, after the Supreme Court decision, the Louisiana Legislature passed a series of laws that segregated schools under the state police powers.

One act ordered separate schools in order "to promote and protect public health, morals, better education and the peace and good order in the state." The act specifically declares segregation is "not because of race."

But the three-judge federal court today ruled that the police power provision does not save the laws from being declared invalid. The court ruled that the laws were unconstitutional.

Injunction Granted

Judge Wright granted a temporary injunction against continued segregation in New Orleans public schools. He told the school board to mix classes "after such a time as may be necessary to make arrangements for admission of children to such schools on a racially nondiscriminatory basis with all deliberate speed."

The judge added that "the problems attendant desegregation in the Deep South are considerably more serious than generally appreciated in some sections of our country.

"It is a problem which will require the utmost patience, understanding, generosity and forbearance from all of us of whatever race."

Senate Group Will Consider Action Today

Bridges Endorses Broad Investigation Of Lobby Pressures

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) announced plans tonight for a sweeping investigation of senatorial campaign contributions.

After a conference with Democratic leaders of the Senate, Gore said he had called a meeting of his Senate Elections subcommittee for 10 a.m. tomorrow to recommend the broad inquiry into "campaign contributions, federal elections and any evidence of corrupt practices which may be revealed."

A short time before Sen. Bridges (R-NH), chairman of the Senate's Republican Policy Committee, issued a statement urging an expanded investigation of lobby pressures exerted on senators during their consideration of the natural gas bill.

George Cool To Bridges' Idea

Bridges said he thought the work ought to be done by the special committee of four senators appointed to look into a $2,500 campaign contribution turned down by Sen. Case (R-SD) in advance of the vote on the gas legislation. This came from the president of an oil and gas company favoring the legislation, but Bridges said there was "a great deal of pressure" against the bill, and said this should be investigated.

But Sen. George (D-Ga), chairman of the special committee, threw cold water on the idea of enlarging that committee's investigation. He said he knew of nothing now to justify it and added that he expected the committee to submit a report on the Case incident next week.

The committee held a series of hearings within the last week to try to determine whether the $2,500 offered Case was an attempt to influence his vote.

Senators Confer

Gore conferred with Sen. Clements of Kentucky, acting Democratic leader, and spent an hour with George before announcing his plans for the broader inquiry.

George reported he had told Gore that "unless something of a startling nature occurs, which I do not now foresee, I hope we can make a report to the Senate next week ... and ask to be discharged."

If the Senate should decide to expand his committee's authority for the purpose of a general investigation, George said, he would not be able to serve because he has too many other things to do.

Gore said the inquiry he has in mind was of a scope "far wider than the gas bill," and he estimated it would "run throughout the year."

88 Killed In New Africa Violence

ALGIERS, Algeria, Feb. 15 (AP)—French sources said violence in Tunisia and Algeria killed 88 persons in the 24 hours ending at dusk tonight.

Reports from Algeria's Nemntcha Mountains said about 40 rebels have been killed there in a continuing mop-up by French troops. The action got under way yesterday.

Another 26 persons are known to have died in other parts of Algeria. These included 8 soldiers, 10 rebels killed in skirmises and 8 Moslems assassinated by terrorists.

The trouble in Tunisia was reported between supporters of moderate political leader Habib Bourguiba and followers of extremist Salah Ben Youssef, who is now in exile in Libya.

The Bourguiba partisans were said to have surprised a band of rebels near the Algerian frontier late last night. The rebels lost 20 dead. Two members of the pro-Bourguiba band were killed.

Rob Bank Of $45,000

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 15 (AP)—Two masked bandits held up a branch of the Manufacturers & Traders Trust Co. today just before closing time and a preliminary check indicated they escaped with about $45,000.

Police said the holdup, eighth in 13 months in this Canadian border city's area, had the earmarks of being "very well planned."

The two men, their heads covered with stocking masks, walked into the Clinton-Bailey branch of the bank just before 2:30 p.m. One held the nine employes at bay while the other looted the tellers' desks.

Ike Exploited War In Korea, HST Says

Truman Points Out Adlai's Errors

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Harry S. Truman accused President Eisenhower today of knowingly lending himself to "a campaign of distortion and vilification" in 1952.

He declared Eisenhower even took the "politically and morally intolerable" step of exploiting the Korean War "for political advantage," and he declared Eisenhower damaged this country's ceasefire efforts by his campaign promise to visit Korea himself.

In the final installment of his memoirs, published in Life magazine, Truman gaves high praise to the integrity and eloquence of Adlai E. Stevenson but declared Stevenson made five major mistakes that lost him millions of votes as the Democratic candidate against Eisenhower.

Truman voices belief that if Stevenson had agreed to accept the nomination when it was first offered to him—by Truman himself Jan. 30, 1952, the former President says—"he would have received at least three million more votes."

As it happened, Stevenson did not make himself available until after the nominating convention opened. Truman says this lack of "a proper buildup" was among the reasons for Stevenson's loss to Eisenhower by more than six million votes.

Truman says his first choice for the 1952 nomination was the late Chief Justice Fred Vinson. He said he turned to Stevenson when Vinson refused to run, then settled on Vice President Barkley—now junior senator from Kentucky—when he couldn't get a commitment from Stevenson.

Barkley took himself out of the race when a meeting of union leaders in Chicago turned thumbs down on him—something that wouldn't have happened, Truman says, if he had followed Truman's advice and sought separate pledges of support from the labor figures.

At this point, Truman relates, Stevenson called "to ask whether it would embarrass me if he allowed his name to be placed in nomination. I replied with a show of exasperation and some rather vigorous words and concluded by saying to Stevenson, 'I have been trying since January to get you to say that. Why would it embarrass me now?"

Truman says that in addition to holding off his bid too long Stevenson made these other "mistakes":

1. He gave the impression he was backing away from the Truman administration and even accepting the Republican charge there was "a mess" to clean up in Washington. Actually, Truman says, the GOP "corruption" charge involved only "a few flyspecks on our Washington windows."

2. Stevenson failed to use existing big city Democratic organizations.

3. There was "little or no coordination" between Washington and Stevenson's headquarters in Springfield, Ill.

4. Stevenson allowed himself to be put on the defensive by "contemptible" Republican charges that the Democrats had been soft toward communism.

Irregularities In VA Housing Setup Reported

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—House investigators reported today a "serious problem" in illegal use of veterans' home loan rights. They also told of "many serious complaints" about poor workmanship in houses sold under GI loans.

The unanimous report by a Veterans Affairs subcommittee climaxed a 14-month, $50,000-study of the Veterans Administration's giant housing program.

The five-man subcommittee headed by Rep. Edmondson (D-Okla) called in some instances for "corrective" legislation. In other cases it recommended tighter VA action, and it said the Justice Department has not been forceful enough in prosecuting GI loan guarantee cases referred to it.

Discount Practice Rapped

The House group also took a look at the basic policy of the home loan guarantee program which since its 1944 beginning has provided more than 4½ million loans worth more than 33 billion dollars.

It questioned the administration's requiring a two per cent down payment on VA-guaranteed loans when, it said, "other segments of the economy go uncontrolled."

It said the commercial practice of charging discounts, or premiums, on GI loans has grown to such proportions throughout the country that it is defeating the very purpose of the VA program to aid veterans.

It recommended that Congress consider outlawing or regulating the discounts, or combatting them by making federal funds available for mortgages where high discounts prevail.

Specific Findings

Among specific findings:

1. Spot checks in various parts of the country have shown a "serious problem" stemming from the use of GI home loan guarantee entitlements where veterans do not intend to live in the homes.

2. "Many serious complaints" about poor workmanship are still pouring into the committee.

3. "There continue to be serious personnel irregularities among some VA loan guarantee personnel, particularly in areas of intense building activity."

Teacher Pay Raise, Tax Bills Signed By Marland

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 15 (AP) — Gov. William C. Marland signed 11 legislative enactments into law today, including a $6,400,000 teacher's pay raise and several revenue measures to finance it.

Signed, along with an act giving teacher pay increases ranging from $15 to $55 a month in basic minimum salaries, was another enactment providing for distribution of money for the increases to the counties outside the present State aid formula.

Other enactments approved by the governor will:

Increase as of July 1, for a period of two years, the State's cigaret tax from four to five cents a pack, with the boost expected to provide $1,800,000 annually toward the higher teacher's pay.

Increase from $100 to $250 a year the minimum license tax on foreign corporations, and place a similar minimum in effect for both foreign and domestic insurance companies. The measure is expected to bring in $1,200,000 annually.

Raise from 4 to 5 per cent the state license on the pari-mutuel handle at race tracks, with an estimated additional annual income of $800,000, and bring about sweeping reorganization—as of July 1—in procedures and operations of the State Racing Commission.

Transfer accrued balances totaling about $605,000 in nine special State Treasury accounts to the general revenue fund as another means of financing the higher teachers' salary.

Authorize the issuance of 10 million dollars worth of bonds for highway construction and maintenance under provisions of the 1920 Good Roads Amendment to the State constitution.

Authorize West Virginia to become a party to the Southern Regional Education Compact, subject to approval of other states now parties.

Authorize West Virginia University's board of governors to issue up to 10 million dollars worth of revenue bonds to finance a new engineering and agriculture school, with the bonds to be retired through certain fees charged students.

Grant the State Board of Education authority to issue revenue bonds, in an amount up to $950,000, to finance a new health and physical education building at Marshall College.

Hospital To Test Plan For Easing Nurse Shortage

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—Sinai Hospital announced today it had received a $35,190 U. S. Public Health Service grant to finance a year-long test of a plan for alleviating the nurses shortage.

The experimental program is the first of its kind to be subsidized by the federal agency. The announcement was made by Harvey H. Weiss, executive director of Sinai, a constituent of Associated Jewish Charities.

Sinai's plan is to free available nurses of the many administrative duties they have acquired over the years so they may devote more time to patient care.

It also envisions a decentralization of hospital management practices, said Weiss. Sinai officials feel their plan will result in more efficient and personalized nursing and housekeeping.

The program will be directed by Asst. Director Morris Throne and supervised by Asst. Administrator Solomon Gladstein.

Beginning March 1, Sinai will train "floor managers" and a staff of "general aides."

The floor managers will be assigned to a hospital unit (a floor) under the head nurse, Throne said.

Supplies for the unit will be checked and ordered by the floor manager. She also will supervise the preparation of food trays for patients and other non-nursing details, such as cleaning rooms, contacting the engineering department for needed repairs and so on.

The general aides will be trained to do the combined jobs of the nursing aide, the housekeeping maid and the dietary maid.

Negroes Charged In Attack On White Student At 'Bama

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Feb. 15 (AP)—Two Negro brothers who said they attacked a University of Alabama white student in anger over campus rioting against a Negro coed were charged with assault with intent to murder today.

Circuit Solicitor Olin Zeanah said the warrant was sworn out by Samuel Perrin Taylor, 19. The student was beaten and kicked by two Negro men last night.

The attack was the first physical violence aimed at a white person since the university campus was shaken by violent protests against enrollment of its first Negro student Feb. 3-6.

Zeanah said both Negroes made statements that they attacked Taylor, a slightly built Tuscaloosa freshmen, because of resentment over the explosive Autherine Lucy case.

The Negroes were listed as Arthur Washington, a soldier on furlough, and his brother, John, both in their 20s.

Anita Ekberg, Actor Fly To Scandinavia

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP) — Calling each other "darling," British actor Anthony Steel and Swedish actress Anita Ekberg today took off in the same plane for a holiday in Scandinavia.

As they boarded the plane someone asked the 33-tear-old Steel whether they were eloping.

"Definitely not," he replied. "I am going to Stockholm to spend a few days with Miss Ekberg before she flies to Hollywood. We have been good friends for some weeks."

A newsman suggested that "good friends" in movieland usually meant romance.

"You can draw your own inference," he replied.

Blind School Pupil Dies Of Diphtheria

SALEM, Ore., Feb. 15 (AP) — A 7-year-old pupil at the state school for the blind died today of diphtheria.

The girl, Christine Artiano, died in a Salem hospital only two days after Mrs. Volet Fry, 56, house mother at the school, also died of the disease.

Dr. Harold M. Erickson, state health officer, said at Portland that laboratory tests confirmed that diphtheria was the cause.

The 86 other pupils at the school are being given tests to determine whether they are immune. Booster shots and penicillin are being used to protect them.

Tag Applications Go Out Next Week

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—Maryland motorists will start receiving applications for new license plates in next week's mail, W. Dana Rudy, deputy commissioner of motor vehicles said today.

Rudy said close to one million applications are expected to be mailed early next week and be in the hands of registered car owners by the end of the week.

Nearly 800,000 of the applications will go to owners of private passenger cars and motorcycles classified as "A" or "D," who must have their plates affixed by April 1.

The deadline for obtaining these tags is March 29. Dana explained the deadline was moved up from the normal March 31 date because that day is a Saturday and the previous day, March 30, is Good Friday, a legal holiday.

Maryland's 1956-57 license plates will have green numerals on a white background and the same letter-number combination adopted last year will be used.

In the final installment of his memoirs, published in Life magazine, Truman gaves high praise to the integrity and eloquence of Adlai E. Stevenson but declared Stevenson made five major mistakes that lost him millions of votes as the Democratic candidate against Eisenhower.

Truman voices belief that if Stevenson had agreed to accept the nomination when it was first offered to him—by Truman himself Jan. 30, 1952, the former President says—"he would have received at least three million more votes."

As it happened, Stevenson did not make himself available until after the nominating convention opened. Truman says this lack of "a proper buildup" was among the reasons for Stevenson's loss to Eisenhower by more than six million votes.

Truman says his first choice for the 1952 nomination was the late Chief Justice Fred Vinson. He said he turned to Stevenson when Vinson refused to run, then settled on Vice President Barkley—now junior senator from Kentucky—when he couldn't get a commitment from Stevenson.

Barkley took himself out of the race when a meeting of union leaders in Chicago turned thumbs down on him—something that wouldn't have happened, Truman says, if he had followed Truman's advice and sought separate pledges of support from the labor figures.

At this point, Truman relates, Stevenson called "to ask whether it would embarrass me if he allowed his name to be placed in nomination. I replied with a show of exasperation and some rather vigorous words and concluded by saying to Stevenson, 'I have been trying since January to get you to say that. Why would it embarrass me now?'"

Truman says that in addition to holding off his bid too long Stevenson made these other "mistakes":

1. He gave the impression he was backing away from the Truman administration and even accepting the Republican charge there was "a mess" to clean up in Washington. Actually, Truman says, the GOP "corruption" charge involved only "a few flyspecks on our Washington windows."

2. Stevenson failed to use existing big city Democratic organizations.

3. There was "little or no coordination" between Washington and Stevenson's headquarters in Springfield, Ill.

4. Stevenson allowed himself to be put on the defensive by "contemptible" Republican charges that the Democrats had been soft toward communism.

Irregularities In VA Housing Setup Reported

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—House investigators reported today a "serious problem" in illegal use of veterans' home loan rights. They also told of "many serious complaints" about poor workmanship in houses sold under GI loans.

The unanimous report by a Veterans Affairs subcommittee climaxed a 14-month, $50,000-study of the Veterans Administration's giant housing program.

The five-man subcommittee headed by Rep. Edmondson (D-Okla) called in some instances for "corrective" legislation. In other cases it recommended tighter VA action, and it said the Justice Department has not been forceful enough in prosecuting GI loan guarantee cases referred to it.

Discount Practice Rapped

The House group also took a look at the basic policy of the home loan guarantee program which since its 1944 beginning has provided more than 4½ million loans worth more than 33 billion dollars.

It questioned the administration's requiring a two per cent down payment on VA-guaranteed loans when, it said, "other segments of the economy go uncontrolled."

It said the commercial practice of charging discounts, or premiums, on GI loans has grown to such proportions throughout the country that it is defeating the very purpose of the VA program to aid veterans.

It recommended that Congress consider outlawing or regulating the discounts, or combatting them by making federal funds available for mortgages where high discounts prevail.

Specific Findings

Among specific findings:

1. Spot checks in various parts of the country have shown a "serious problem" stemming from the use of GI home loan guarantee entitlements where veterans do not intend to live in the homes.

2. "Many serious complaints" about poor workmanship are still pouring into the committee.

3. "There continue to be serious personnel irregularities among some VA loan guarantee personnel, particularly in areas of intense building activity."

Teacher Pay Raise, Tax Bills Signed By Marland

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 15 (AP) — Gov. William C. Marland signed 11 legislative enactments into law today, including a $6,400,000 teacher's pay raise and several revenue measures to finance it.

Signed, along with an act giving teacher pay increases ranging from $15 to $55 a month in basic minimum salaries, was another enactment providing for distribution of money for the increases to the counties outside the present State aid formula.

Other enactments approved by the governor will:

Increase as of July 1, for a period of two years, the State's cigaret tax from four to five cents a pack, with the boost expected to provide $1,800,000 annually toward the higher teacher's pay.

Increase from $100 to $250 a year the minimum license tax on foreign corporations, and place a similar minimum in effect for both foreign and domestic insurance companies. The measure is expected to bring in $1,200,000 annually.

Raise from 4 to 5 per cent the state license on the pari-mutuel handle at race tracks, with an estimated additional annual income of $800,000, and bring about sweeping reorganization—as of July 1—in procedures and operations of the State Racing Commission.

Transfer accrued balances totaling about $605,000 in nine special State Treasury accounts to the general revenue fund as another means of financing the higher teachers' salary.

Authorize the issuance of 10 million dollars worth of bonds for highway construction and maintenance under provisions of the 1920 Good Roads Amendment to the State constitution.

Authorize West Virginia to become a party to the Southern Regional Education Compact, subject to approval of other states now parties.

Authorize West Virginia University's board of governors to issue up to 10 million dollars worth of revenue bonds to finance a new engineering and agriculture school, with the bonds to be retired through certain fees charged students.

Grant the State Board of Education authority to issue revenue bonds, in an amount up to $950,000, to finance a new health and physical education building at Marshall College.

Negroes Charged In Attack On White Student At 'Bama

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Feb. 15 (AP)—Two Negro brothers who said they attacked a University of Alabama white student in anger over campus rioting against a Negro coed were charged with assault with intent to murder today.

Circuit Solicitor Olin Zeanah said the warrant was sworn out by Samuel Perrin Taylor, 19. The student was beaten and kicked by two Negro men last night.

The attack was the first physical violence aimed at a white person since the university campus was shaken by violent protests against enrollment of its first Negro student Feb. 3-6.

Zeanah said both Negroes made statements that they attacked Taylor, a slightly built Tuscaloosa freshmen, because of resentment over the explosive Autherine Lucy case.

The Negroes were listed as Arthur Washington, a soldier on furlough, and his brother, John, both in their 20s.

Hospital To Test Plan For Easing Nurse Shortage

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—Sinai Hospital announced today it had received a $35,190 U. S. Public Health Service grant to finance a year-long test of a plan for alleviating the nurses shortage.

The experimental program is the first of its kind to be subsidized by the federal agency. The announcement was made by Harvey H. Weiss, executive director of Sinai, a constituent of Associated Jewish Charities.

Sinai's plan is to free available nurses of the many administrative duties they have acquired over the years so they may devote more time to patient care.

It also envisions a decentralization of hospital management practices, said Weiss. Sinai officials feel their plan will result in more efficient and personalized nursing and housekeeping.

The program will be directed by Asst. Director Morris Throne and supervised by Asst. Administrator Solomon Gladstein.

Beginning March 1, Sinai will train "floor managers" and a staff of "general aides."

The floor managers will be assigned to a hospital unit (a floor) under the head nurse, Throne said.

Supplies for the unit will be checked and ordered by the floor manager. She also will supervise the preparation of food trays for patients and other non-nursing details, such as cleaning rooms, contacting the engineering department for needed repairs and so on.

The general aides will be trained to do the combined jobs of the nursing aide, the housekeeping maid and the dietary maid.

Tag Applications Go Out Next Week

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—Maryland motorists will start receiving applications for new license plates in next week's mail, W. Dana Rudy, deputy commissioner of motor vehicles said today.

Rudy said close to one million applications are expected to be mailed early next week and be in the hands of registered car owners by the end of the week.

Nearly 800,000 of the applications will go to owners of private passenger cars and motorcycles classified as "A" or "D," who must have their plates affixed by April 1.

The deadline for obtaining these tags is March 29. Dana explained the deadline was moved up from the normal March 31 date because that day is a Saturday and the previous day, March 30, is Good Friday, a legal holiday.

Maryland's 1956-57 license plates will have green numerals on a white background and the same letter-number combination adopted last year will be used.

Anita Ekberg, Actor Fly To Scandinavia

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP) — Calling each other "darling," British actor Anthony Steel and Swedish actress Anita Ekberg today took off in the same plane for a holiday in Scandinavia.

As they boarded the plane someone asked the 33-tear-old Steel whether they were eloping.

"Definitely not," he replied. "I am going to Stockholm to spend a few days with Miss Ekberg before she flies to Hollywood. We have been good friends for some weeks."

A newsman suggested that "good friends" in movieland usually meant romance.

"You can draw your own inference," he replied.

Worker Is Killed

ARLINGTON, Va., Feb. 15 (AP)—Grayson M. Thorpe Jr., 21, was killed today by falling lumber while working on an apartment project near Shirley Highway.

Blind School Pupil Dies Of Diphtheria

SALEM, Ore., Feb. 15 (AP) — A 7-year-old pupil at the state school for the blind died today of diphtheria.

The girl, Christine Artiano, died in a Salem hospital only two days after Mrs. Volet Fry, 56, house mother at the school, also died of the disease.

Dr. Harold M. Erickson, state health officer, said at Portland that laboratory tests confirmed that diphtheria was the cause.

The 86 other pupils at the school are being given tests to determine whether they are immune. Booster shots and penicillin are being used to protect them.

The same few minutes you fritter away talking on the phone could be used to streamline your figure.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Why Exercise?

There isn't a beauty expert around who doesn't insist that exercise is all-important. Unfortunately, many of you resist exercise because you've been told or read some place that you must devote a whole hour each day to it—and you just won't take that time. Or, perhaps you actually don't have that much time to spare, you say.

If you don't have that kind of time, here is what I have observed. I know many beautiful girls and women who have kept their figures trim and lovely by only five, or, at the most, ten minutes of exercising a day. The secret is . . . they never miss a day . . . and that means seven days a week without those few minutes.

Stop and think . . . that's no more time than you spend smoking a cigarette, or talking with someone on the telephone. Fifteen minutes of exercise each day would be more beneficial; and you probably could work up to that if you put your mind to it, once you got the habit of devoting this much time to improving your figure. But, you can get by with less and see a great improvement.

The best time to exercise is either midmorning or midafternoon . . . never just before or after a meal.

So many of my Powers Models tell me how much better they feel when I tell them how much better they look. Mentally they are better off because any woman feels better when she knows she looks better, and, when she redistributes weight from where she had too much.

Pay Boost Urged

Source Of Maryland Teachers Drying Up, Legislature Is Told

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 15 (AP) — The Maryland Legislature was told today that the State's source of public school teachers is "drying up" and unless a pay increase is voted "the situation promises to grow exceedingly worse."

Milson C. Raver, executive secretary of the Maryland State Teachers Assn., urged the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means Committee to approve a $400 across the board pay increase for teachers and a $600 boost for those holding master's degrees.

Maryland will need an average of 3,800 new teachers a year for the next five years, he said at a public hearing which some 500 persons jammed the Senate chamber and Statehouse corridors to attend.

"The demand promises to grow even greater after 1960," he added.

Raver said Maryland's teacher colleges and other institutions of higher learning graduated only 867 students last June who were fully qualified to teach in Maryland public schools. Yet last September the State had to hire more than 3,000 new teachers.

This gap was partially filled through an intensive out-of-state recruitment program, Raver said, but "even this source is drying up as our neighboring states continue to raise their teachers' salaries in the face of their mounting teacher-supply problem."

Others were obtained through refresher courses in the counties to attract former teachers and "other persons with some semblance of qualifications," he said. Still others were taken who didn't even meet qualifications for regular certification to teach.

He estimated that 27 per cent of the total number of county teachers today are not fully qualified.

Raver said Maryland has fallen from fifth in the nation in teacher salaries in 1952 to 12th place this year. Pennsylvania nudged ahead of Maryland only this year, he said.

The bills he and other education officials spoke for would require a state outlay of $10,200,000 beginning in the fall of 1957.

It would boost the minimum salary scale from $2,800 to $3,200 in starting pay and from $4,800 to $5,000 at top level. Those with master's degrees and two years experience would receive an additional $200.

Raver said rising yields from state taxes might enable it to be accomplished for the most part without further tax boosts.

"However, if a tax program is required next year to finance this legislation, we will be willing to support vigorously any reasonable and fair tax program recommended for this purpose," he added.

Fringe Benefits Asked By Union Draw BTC Fire

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 15 (AP)—Most of the fringe benefits which the striking union is seeking at an estimated cost of $1,820,182 were described today as "feather bedding" by Joseph Sherbow, chief negotiator for the Baltimore Transit Co.

He also said such alleged "pyramiding of costs for work not performed or needed" was causing the company to be "choked out" of charter business and that its pension demand would force it into bankruptcy.

Sherbow strive to convince the House Grand Inquest of the 18-day-old strike that it was caused by the union's refusal to "budge one inch" from its original 39 demands except for two minor withdrawals.

Four hours before the strike on Jan. 29, Sherbow said he thought settlement was in sight and he was ready to make some concessions in a few major areas such as wages.

But Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, who was acting as go-between, finally said the union told him "that no matter what you did, they would not have accepted them.

"He was dejected. I was ill. I realized then we were moving and they had not moved one inch."

Sherbow said the main stumbling block was the union's refusal to surrender any of its fringe benefit demands applying mostly to working rules requiring extra pay. Sherbow said he had offered to reach an agreement on the amount of money the company was willing to give and then apply it all to the hourly wage, but the union said "it had to put some on fringe benefits."

Sherbow claimed the union put itself in position where it "was unable to give up any demands" because it had "played up" secrecy on negotiations to which the parties agreed.

He contradicted a union statement yesterday that he first suggested details of negotiations be kept secret. Instead, he said it was Bernard Cushman, union lawyer, who proposed it and then delivered a "lecture" on his reasons.

Sherbow said he was in full accord with not announcing details as the negotiating progressed but from now on "as far as we are concerned, anything and everything can be made public although I know of nothing which will hamper negotiations as much."

He testified that the union's repeated offer of "its same old demands" at one stage provoked D'Alesandro to cry, "You've got to compromise."

Grand Inquest Open To Radio Broadcasts

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 15 (AP) — Del. Boone (D-Balto County), chairman of the Baltimore Transit Co. grand inquest, said today radio stations would be welcome to broadcast proceedings.

The inquest, which banned TV and radio last Tuesday, approved yesterday a resolution asking the House of Delegates recommending their admission. From a legislative viewpoint, it was felt by some that the resolution would have to go to the House itself although it and the Grand Inquest are one and the same body.

However, Boone said he considered approval by the inquest sufficient and was telling interested radio stations they could broadcast.

Television stations were given permission Monday by Boone to take movies of the hearings although they have not made any live telecasts.

Baltimore Coffee Prices Increased

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP) — A scarcity of the mild varieties of Brazilian coffees was given as the reason for higher coffee prices in Baltimore today.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. boosted its brands of bagged coffees from two to four cents per pound to retail levels of 77, 87 and 89 cents.

Vacuum packed coffee went from 89 to 93 cents per pound. Similar price changes are expected by other leading chain stores.

The grocery chains have all upped the prices of nationally advertised coffees by 5 cents to levels of $1 to $1.04 per pound, depending upon the brand.

All instant coffees have gone up by 6 and 7 cents per pound. Prices of some of the leading brands have gone above $1 for the first time since last May.

SRC Conspiracy Trial March 5

ROCKVILLE, Md., Feb. 15 (AP)—Trial of five men, including a former State Roads Commission employe now in Mexico, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the commission has been set for March 5 in Montgomery County Circuit Court.

The men are Ben Du Pre, Constas (Gus) Basiliko, Robert J. Rosenfeld, Jerry Goldberg and Max Offenberg. They were indicted last November following published reports of speculation in highway right-of-way deals.

Du Pre, a roads commission right-of-way engineer, resigned during a SRC hearing on a charge that he had given information to real estate men on new highway routes in the Washington area.

Since the hearing he has returned to his native Mexico. But his wife said Jan. 11 she understood his attorney was arranging for him to return to face trial.

The Montgomery County state's attorney's office said no attempt had been made to extradite Du Pre and that it didn't know whether he would appear for trial. The trial will proceed under any circumstance, a spokesman said.

Rosenfeld and Goldberg sold land to the commission near Rockville. Offenberg has been listed as the head of a real estate group which bought land in the path of proposed State highways.

Baltimore Composer And Violinist Dies

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP) — Theodor Hemberger, composer, violinist and once a member of Baltimore's famed Saturday Night Club, died today at a home for aged Germans. He was 85.

His passing broke one of the city's last links with the 19th Century German music tradition.

Until recently he had been director of the Zion Church Choir, one of the oldest German choirs in the United States, and the Harmonica Gesengverein, a German singing society.

Born in Germany, Hemberger composed a duet for violins at the age of 10 and made his debut as a violin soloist at 14. He met Emma Conrad, of Scranton, Pa., an American singer, in Germany, followed her to the United States and married her here.

The Hembergers came to Baltimore after establishing a symphony orchestra in Scranton. In Baltimore, Hemberger led the United Singers of Baltimore and organized a program of Sunday night symphony concerts at the Lyric Theater which were ultimately abandoned because of the then existing blue laws.

Pay Boost Urged

Source Of Maryland Teachers Drying Up, Legislature Is Told

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 15 (AP) — The Maryland Legislature was told today that the State's source of public school teachers is "drying up" and unless a pay increase is voted "the situation promises to grow exceedingly worse."

Milson C. Raver, executive secretary of the Maryland State Teachers Assn., urged the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means Committee to approve a $400 across the board pay increase for teachers and a $600 boost for those holding master's degrees.

Maryland will need an average of 3,800 new teachers a year for the next five years, he said at a public hearing which some 500 persons jammed the Senate chamber and Statehouse corridors to attend.

"The demand promises to grow even greater after 1960," he added.

Raver said Maryland's teacher colleges and other institutions of higher learning graduated only 867 students last June who were fully qualified to teach in Maryland public schools. Yet last September the State had to hire more than 3,000 new teachers.

This gap was partially filled through an intensive out-of-state recruitment program, Raver said, but "even this source is drying up as our neighboring states continue to raise their teachers' salaries in the face of their mounting teacher-supply problem."

Others were obtained through refresher courses in the counties to attract former teachers and "other persons with some semblance of qualifications," he said. Still others were taken who didn't even meet qualifications for regular certification to teach.

He estimated that 27 per cent of the total number of county teachers today are not fully qualified.

Raver said Maryland has fallen from fifth in the nation in teacher salaries in 1952 to 12th place this year. Pennsylvania nudged ahead of Maryland only this year, he said.

The bills he and other education officials spoke for would require a state outlay of $10,200,000 beginning in the fall of 1957.

It would boost the minimum salary scale from $2,800 to $3,200 in starting pay and from $4,800 to $5,000 at top level. Those with master's degrees and two years experience would receive an additional $200.

Raver said rising yields from state taxes might enable it to be accomplished for the most part without further tax boosts.

"However, if a tax program is required next year to finance this legislation, we will be willing to support vigorously any reasonable and fair tax program recommended for this purpose," he added.

Fringe Benefits Asked By Union Draw BTC Fire

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 15 (AP)—Most of the fringe benefits which the striking union is seeking at an estimated cost of $1,820,182 were described today as "feather bedding" by Joseph Sherbow, chief negotiator for the Baltimore Transit Co.

He also said such alleged "pyramiding of costs for work not performed or needed" was causing the company to be "choked out" of charter business and that its pension demand would force it into bankruptcy.

Sherbow strive to convince the House Grand Inquest of the 18-day-old strike that it was caused by the union's refusal to "budge one inch" from its original 39 demands except for two minor withdrawals.

Charge Filed Against Driver In Fatal Crash

A Grantsville man has been charged with involuntary manslaughter resulting from the death of his wife and two small daughters in an automobile accident.

Herman Bittinger, 42, was lodged in Fayette County (Pa.) Jail in default of $2,500 bond set at a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Victor Holt of Farmington, Pa.

The charges were filed by Pfc. John Lopatosky of the Uniontown Detachment of the Pennsylvania State Police.

Bittinger was the operator of an automobile involved in a three-car accident on U. S. Route 40, near Uniontown, on Sunday, February 5, in which his wife and daughters were killed.

Besides the three persons killed in the mishap, 16 other persons were injured.

Two of the youngest victims of the accident remain in "critical" condition at Mercy Hospital in Pittsburgh.

Hospital attaches yesterday said Wilma Bittinger, two-months-old daughter of the deceased woman, and Rebecca Ann McCoy, seven-months old, are still on the critical list, but have improved since being transferred to Pittsburgh from the Uniontown hospital.

Attaches said the extent of their injuries is still undetermined.

County Board Commends B&O

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners Tuesday followed the lead of the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland in authorizing a letter of thanks to Howard E. Simpson, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, expressing appreciation for the B&O's decision to spend $10,000,000 here for construction of one of the largest and most modern classification yards in the nation.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the commissioners, was instructed to draw up the necessary letter. The action was taken on motion of Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson; seconded by Commissioner James Orr and concurred in by William H. Lemmert, board president.

The commissioners also received a letter from Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian of the Cumberland Free Public Library, urging them to write Senators John Marshall Butler and J. Glenn Beall and Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde urging their support for the Federal Library Services Bill. No action was taken.

First State Forester To Be Honored

The State Department of Forests and Parks will observe its 50 anniversary today with a testimonial dinner at the Southern Hotel in Baltimore with Dr. Fred W. Besley, the first state forester as guest of honor.

Attending the event will be William H. Johnson, district forester here.

Dr. Besley, 84, retired in 1945 after serving as state forester since the inception of the forestry department in 1906. He has made frequent trips to this section of the state both during and after his service as state forester.

Johnson explained that one of the hobbies of Dr. Besley is the annual measuring of the largest trees in Maryland of the various types. He spent several weeks in Garrett County last year to check on trees he first measured years ago.

A booklet published by the State Department of Forests and Parks in 1937 lists some of the large trees in Garrett County. Johnson said since that time, approximately 19 years, the trees have grown to larger size in circumference.

Among the big trees in Garrett County are the following. A white pine at Merrill in the Savage River Dam area which is 19 feet, four inches in circumference and 159 feet tall. A sugar maple in the Sang Run section which is 16 feet, four inches in circumference and 105 feet tall.

A black willow at Sang Run is 2 feet, six inches in circumference and 80 feet tall. Near Bayard here is a red spruce, five feet, 10 inches in circumference and 96 feet tall. Near Gormania there is a hemlock, 12 feet, two inches in circumference and 107 feet tall. A mountain ash, three foot, four inches in circumference and 35 feet tall is also located in Garrett County.

There is also an ironwood tree, three feet, four inches in circumference which is 55 feet tall. A large striped maple one foot, seven inches in circumference and 34 feet tall is located in the mountainous area. Other huge trees for their type in Garrett include a yellow birch, seven feet, three inches in circumference and 75 feet tall and an alder, 11 feet in circumference and 20 feet tall.

Dr. Besley at one time measured a wild plum tree which he believed to be the largest in the state. It was five feet in circumference and 29 feet tall. An apple tree, nine feet, six inches in circumference located in Garrett County is 45 feet tall.

County Board Commends B&O

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners Tuesday followed the lead of the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland in authorizing a letter of thanks to Howard E. Simpson, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, expressing appreciation for the B&O's decision to spend $10,000,000 here for construction of one of the largest and most modern classification yards in the nation.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the commissioners, was instructed to draw up the necessary letter. The action was taken on motion of Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson; seconded by Commissioner James Orr and concurred in by William H. Lemmert, board president.

The commissioners also received a letter from Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian of the Cumberland Free Public Library, urging them to write Senators John Marshall Butler and J. Glenn Beall and Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde urging their support for the Federal Library Services Bill. No action was taken.

First State Forester To Be Honored

The State Department of Forests and Parks will observe its 50 anniversary today with a testimonial dinner at the Southern Hotel in Baltimore with Dr. Fred W. Besley, the first state forester as guest of honor.

Attending the event will be William H. Johnson, district forester here.

Dr. Besley, 84, retired in 194[illegible] after serving as state forester since the inception of the forestry department in 1906. He has made frequent trips to this section of the state both during and after his service as state forester.

Johnson explained that one of the hobbies of Dr. Besley is the annual measuring of the largest trees in Maryland of the various types. He spent several weeks in Garrett County last year to check on trees he first measured years ago.

A booklet published by the State Department of Forests and Parks in 1937 lists some of the large trees in Garrett County. Johnson said since that time, approximately 19 years, the trees have grown to larger size in circumference.

Among the big trees in Garrett County are the following. A white pine at Merrill in the Savage River Dam area which is 19 feet, four inches in circumference and 159 feet tall. A sugar maple in the Sang Run section which is 16 feet, four inches in circumference and 105 feet tall.

A black willow at Sang Run is [illegible] feet, six inches in circumference and 80 feet tall. Near Bayard there is a red spruce, five feet, 10 inches in circumference and 96 feet tall. Near Gormania there is a hemlock, 12 feet, two inches in circumference and 107 feet tall. A mountain ash, three foot, four inches in circumference and 35 feet tall is also located in Garrett County.

There is also an ironwood tree, three feet, four inches in circumference which is 55 feet tall. A large striped maple one foot, seven inches in circumference and 34 feet tall is located in the mountainous area. Other huge trees for their type in Garrett include a yellow birch, seven feet, three inches in circumference and 75 feet tall and an alder, 11 feet in circumference and 20 feet tall.

Dr. Besley at one time measured a wild plum tree which he believed to be the largest in the state. It was five feet in circumference and 29 feet tall. An apple tree, nine feet, six inches in circumference located in Garrett County is 45 feet tall.

Red Cross Advance Gifts Group Opens 1956 Drive

W. Earle Cobey, chairman of the Advance Gifts Section of the Red Cross fund campaign, said his group opened the appeal yesterday with more than 50 solicitors scheduled to contact the major business firms and business and professional people in Allegany County. The goal for the Advance Gifts Section is $16,400, Cobey said.

In appealing for support of the fund campaign, Cobey pointed out that the emergency disaster fund of the National Red Cross was practically wiped out last year, the heaviest disaster year in the 75-year history of the Red Cross.

The major portion of the fund was expended in assisting victims of the '55 floods in the northeast and far west sections of the country, Cobey explained, adding that $27,000,000 was spent in aiding families and small businesses.

Assisting in the Advance Gifts campaign are Mrs. Harry Beneman, Milton Bernstein, James Bishop, Douglas Bowie, William R. Carscaden, Charles S. Catherman Jr., Earl Chaney, John Coyle, Marcus A. Naughton, Thomas B. Cumiskey, Edward L. Ewald, Mrs. Paul Fletcher, Philmore Fleming, Arthur Fuller, James Getty.

Clifford D. Goodfellow, Ray F. Hammer, C. Walter Haschert Jr., Charles F. Helmrich, Byron Kight Jr., Mrs. Richard Kirsch, John Kreiling, Edgar Kendall, Rudolph Kompanek, Charles L. Kopp, Lynn C. Lashley, Mortimer Schaidt, George A. Schwarzenbach, Boston Sherwood.

Counties May Share In Gas Revenues From State Land

The counties of Maryland would share in any revenue obtained from the sale of natural gas on state-owned land, according to a bill introduced Tuesday in the State Senate.

Senate Bill 108, proposed by Sen. Clifford Friend of Garrett County calls for the state to give 15 per cent of any revenue from the sale of gas or oil by the state from any of its parks or forests to the county where this gas or oil is located.

Most of the natural gas produced in Maryland is located in two fields in Garrett County, one at Mountain Lake Park and the other in the Accident section.

However, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and other corporations have leased about 30,000 acres of land in the eastern part of Allegany County. Green Ridge State Forest, in this section, covers 25,631 acres.

Test boring were taken last summer and it is understood the results have been learned, but not disclosed.

Less than 20 per cent of the world flax crop is used for making linen. Most of the acreage is seed flax, grown for the manufacture of linseed oil and linseed cake.

At the time of the American Revolution, it is estimated that only about 20 per cent of the inhabitants of the colonies in revolt against England were literate.

Assault Case Is Dismissed

A charge of feloniously assaulting his 21-month-old stepson, placed Tuesday against a 19-year-old Mineral County man, was dropped for lack of evidence at a hearing in Keyser yesterday.

Justice of the Peace Anna Abramson, of Piedmont, dismissed the charge against Neil Eugene Bauer, who lives on Knobley Road six miles off Route 40, for lack of witnesses to the alleged assault.

The child is a patient in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, where he was admitted February 2, suffering from second degree burns of the feet and legs from the knees down. He is reported in "good" condition.

Trooper Charles Oliver, of the West Virginia State Police detachment at Keyser investigated.

Prosecuting Attorney Vernon E. Rankin represented the state and John Hamilton and Joseph Blundon were defense attorneys.

Prosecutor Rankin and Officer Oliver reported the child's mother would not say she saw Bauer mistreat the child and that Bauer denied the charge under questioning.

The hearing was originally scheduled Tuesday before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle, but Rankin became ill and Justice Bazzle disqualified herself.

Property Sold

Merle G. Kelly and Roy P. Kelly, her husband, have sold property on the north side of LaVale Terrace to Robert E. Hunter and Betty Ann Hunter, his wife, according to a deed filed for record Tuesday in the record room at the Court House.

Truckers' Magazine Cites Safety Sign

The Maryland Motor Transport News for January publicized the safety precaution of placing a sign on Big Savage Mountain west of here on U. S. Route 40.

According to the caption of the picture showing the sign, a state police officer and a trucker, little explanation was needed with the picture.

The sign was placed along the eastern slope of Big Savage after the tragedy in LaVale last fall which claimed five lives when a runaway truck went out of control as it was descending the mountain and roared through Frostburg into LaVale.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 15 (INS)—Desi Arnaz told me that he had the most emotional experience in his life in Detroit. A Jesuit priest, Father Rodriguez, telephoned to say that 24 years ago in Santiago, Cuba, he had taught the mayor's son, young Desiderio Alberto Arnaz Y De Acho III, his ABC's and amateur theatricals.

"I left Cuba 25 years ago during the revolution," said Desi. "Father Rodriguez left later and went to Spain and Mexico. He now has the Holy Trinity Parish in Detroit. When he read that we were coming to town he made sure that I was the same boy he taught in Cuba so many years ago. I did amateur production for Father Rodriguez of 'Don Quixote,' and now," said Desi, "I am producing the same story on my Desilu program."

"I learned what the 'love' means in "I Love Lucy," said Lucille Ball. "It means love of the people. In our 17-day tour, everyone showed us so much affection."

When Ramon Hakim was here with Rita Hayworth he told me about his picture, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," which stars Gina Lollogribida and Anthony Quinn. He said that he'll invite a group of American critics to see his picture in Paris.

Today Harold Mirisch, vice-president of Allied Artists, said that his company will release the Victor Hugo classic. However, they cannot use the title "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," because another company has prior claim. Nevertheless, it's still the Victor Hugo story.

Fifty thousand dollars was planked down by Universal-International for the screen rights to F. Hugh Herbert's "For Love Or Money," which starred June Lockhart on Broadway about four years ago. It was Ross Hunter who asked for the property to star Jane Powell.

Poor Ross underwent surgery for a dislocated jaw which caused him agony as it was pressing against his eardrum. Very curious the way it happened. He yawned a couple of weeks ago, dislocated the jaw and was in great pain until he had the surgery.

Visited Grace Kelly on the set of "High Society" while she was emoting with Margalo Gilmore, who plays her mother, and Lydia Reed, who plays her small sister. Neither Bing nor Frank Sinatra was working, so I had a good chance to talk with Grace.

She told me that Prince Rainier III leaves March 2nd for home. "I believe he will take his father Prince Pierre of Monaco to San Francisco and Santa Barbara before he goes east," she said.

Grace finishes "High Society" March 7. She'll wait until the 10th to see if there are any retakes before she goes to Philadelphia and New York. That will give her three weeks until she sails April 4 on the Constitution for her royal wedding.

"Silk Stockings," which has just celebrated its first year on Broadway, has been handed to Arthur Freed to produce as a motion picture. This will be the 38th film which Arthur has produced in his 17 years of making top MGM musicals.

"Silk Stockings" couldn't very well help be a success, since it was adapted from "Ninotchka." Garbo's well remembered satire on Soviet Russia. In addition, it has Cole Porter's wonderful music. So far, Arthur has no cast.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

All the femmes in "The Opposite Sex" are sick with colds, so the set was shut down.

Clark and Kay Gable are really hopping around below the border. They left the yacht at Acapulco to fly to Mexico City, and then on to Panama City where they'll take to the water again.

Come June, Bud Westmore and Mrs. W. (the former Jeanne Shores "Miss California") are expecting a baby. They were married last April.

On the subject of the Westmore clan, Perc is back after lecturing and appearing on TV and radio in the interest of his new Westmore beauty book.

Maureen and John Farrow gave a cocktail party and buffet dinner for Archduke Otto of Austria and Hungary. He and I are the godparents of Stephanie Farrow.

Mari Blanchard, who takes off Sunday for Mexico City for the lead opposite Pedro Armandarez in "The Basket," will leave behind a lonesome Mel Torme with whom she's been dining regularly at Phil Ahn's Moongate cafe.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Assault Case Is Dismissed

A charge of feloniously assaulting his 21-month-old stepson, placed Tuesday against a 19-year-old Mineral County man, was dropped for lack of evidence at a hearing in Keyser yesterday.

Justice of the Peace Anna Abramson, of Piedmont, dismissed the charge against Neil Eugene Bauer, who lives on Knobley Road six miles off Route 40, for lack of witnesses to the alleged assault.

The child is a patient in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, where he was admitted February 2, suffering from second degree burns of the feet and legs from the knees down. He is reported in "good" condition.

Trooper Charles Oliver, of the West Virginia State Police detachment at Keyser investigated.

Prosecuting Attorney Vernon E. Rankin represented the state and John Hamilton and Joseph Blundon were defense attorneys.

Prosecutor Rankin and Officer Oliver reported the child's mother would not say she saw Bauer mistreat the child and that Bauer denied the charge under questioning.

The hearing was originally scheduled Tuesday before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle, but Rankin became ill and Justice Bazzle disqualified herself.

Property Sold

Merle G. Kelly and Roy P. Kelly, her husband, have sold property on the north side of LaVale Terrace to Robert E. Hunter and Betty Ann Hunter, his wife, according to a deed filed for record Tuesday in the record room at the Court House.

Classes began yesterday and will conclude on May 23 with instruction periods being conducted by Dr. O'Neill each Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Truckers' Magazine Cites Safety Sign

The Maryland Motor Transport News for January publicized the safety precaution of placing a sign on Big Savage Mountain west of here on U. S. Route 40.

According to the caption of the picture showing the sign, a state police officer and a trucker, little explanation was needed with the picture.

The sign was placed along the eastern slope of Big Savage after the tragedy in LaVale last fall which claimed five lives when a runaway truck went out of control as it was descending the mountain and roared through Frostburg into LaVale.

Court Probates Wills Of Five

Allegany County Orphans Court was a busy place Tuesday as five wills were probated, compared with the usual one or two each session.

Mrs. Flora M. Blackwell, who lived at 815 Braddock Road at the time of her death February 8, left her estate jointly to a brother, Grover W. McElfish, this city; a son, John Ray Blackwell, Needham, Mass., and a daughter, Sarabelle Blackwell, Minneapolis, Minn. A friend, Miss Mary B Volk, this city, qualified as administratrix c. t. a. of the estate because both the son and daughter renounced their right to serve as executors. The will was dated June 28, 1949.

Also probated was the last testament of Paul J. Schultz, who was 60 and lived at 314 Baltimore Avenue at the time of his death December 24. His estate was left to his wife, Mrs. Maude L. Schultz. A friend, Edgar A. Kendall, qualified as executor of the estate. The will was dated January 31, 1955.

William Kolberg, an 83-year-old Westernport man who died January 10, left $150 to St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church of Westernport for masses and virtually all of the rest of his estate to his wife, Mrs. Magdalean Hanning Kolberg. A son, Elmer August Kolberg, qualified as executor of the estate. The will was dated November 6, 1953.

Another will was that of Charles E. Tharp, who was 77 and lived in McCoole at the time of his death February 1. His estate was left to his wife, Mrs. Nannie R. Tharp. His daughter, Wanda Lee Tharp, also of McCoole, qualified as executrix of the estate. The will was dated June 30, 1951.

Anna L. Porter, who died January 6, left her estate to her sister, Clara B. Frost, and her brother, Daniel A. C. Porter. The will was dated October 20, 1930. A nephew, Richard Allan Porter, 28 Greene Street, qualified as administrator c. t. a.

Balloons Over Soviet Annoy The Russians

Since the touchy and suspicious Soviets have never had any hesitation about shooting down aerial trespassers on sight, it is not particularly surprising that they are deeply annoyed over the balloons which have been drifting of late across the Russian frontiers.

To the Russian mind the propaganda balloons floated over by Radio Free Europe must have been bad enough. But this must have been nothing to the shock and alarm that was felt when great plastic balloons were found over the Soviet Union carrying radio transmitters, automatic cameras for aerial photography, and other equipment.

The American explanation is simple enough. These are weather balloons sent up in connection with the observance of the International Geophysical Year. Last year the balloons were used over the United States; last month it was announced that the program was being expanded to include Europe, Alaska, and Hawaii.

This is probably the entire story. At best, weather balloons cannot be a very effective way of spying. There is no way to control their course any more accurately than by letting them drift in the direction that the wind generally blows. Unless balloon science is a great deal further advanced than is generally realized, there is scant likelihood of recovering any aerial camera that drifts over the vast spaces of the Soviet Union and recovering its film.

However, most Americans would be highly pleased if the Russian suspicions were justified and American scientists had found a way of using balloons to ferret out Soviet secrets. Considering the effectiveness of the Red spy apparatus, the U. S. deserves to get some of the breaks some of the time.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

It's Cassius' World

Cassius is reputed to have a lean and hungry look. He turns up to be a nasty conspirator with much jealousy and vindictiveness in his system. Yet, the doctors are brain-washing me that I should forego my Falstaffian figure and become a Cassius. Every day, I listen to the advantage of being a skinny guy, one who eats not three meals a day but six, and the six containing about as much food as one of mine used to do.

I am being subjected to a propaganda that I must remove the tensions from my life. How does one live without some kind of tensions? Suppose you get a little excited over the Truman-MacArthur argument, or the Alabama University case, or Marilyn Monroe busting a strap that holds up her dress, or wondering where the money is to come from to meet taxes, or whether Eisenhower or Stevenson or Harriman or Nixon will be the next president, or whether it is really true that MGM is trying to get rid of the liberal, Dore Schary, or whether that sociologist Lee Mortimer really knows the girls he writes about. All these cause emotions and tensions, some of them subconscious, like when you wake up in the morning dreaming that you have finally tripped your worst enemy, only to discover that you have no enemy.

Everybody has tensions but I keep asking why it is that a fellow feels fine, goes to bed with not a thing bothering him, wakes up choking, tells his troubles to his dog, and the next thing he is lying flat on his back and the doctors say, "You have to cut out the tensions." What tensions?

Of course, there are always little things that go wrong but they have gone wrong for many years without being called tensions. There is one fellow I know who never says yes and never says no. He is the supreme buck passer. For some reason, he is a great success in life and has taken very good care of himself, but he never says yes and he never says no. He is like the Yankee who was asked about the weather and said: "It's a nice day if it doesn't cloud over."

I suppose such a fellow has no tensions. He probably finds a way of dodging every great issue in his life by manipulating it into somebody else's lap. But most of us do not like to duck a fight or to compromise everything in life, even what we are to have for dinner. If it were not for the fighters, the so-called controversial people, there would never have been any human progress. The first fellow that got fooling around with fire must have startled his family and neighbors and most of them must have said to him, "Why not let well enough alone." But he monkeyed with stone and flint or whatever he used until he had a blaze and then they cooked a sheep or a pig or whatever it was that the first man cooked.

That was one of the great revolutions of all time and it must have scared the folks enough to give several of them coronaries. But it came out good, according to their uncultivated tastes. It must have produced tension when people along the seacoast began to eat oysters, clams, lobsters and such monstrous things. Man learned most that he knows through his tensions, even if occasionally it produces a coronary.

I watch these doctors who keep me prone and I wonder whether their great knowledge about tensions has helped them any in their private lives. How do they assuage their wives who want to know why? That takes some doing, assuaging a wife. Maybe they have worked out a way of doing it without tension, although it would be necessary to get the wife to join in the conspiracy against tension. Just to get her to keep her voice down, takes some doing when a wife is really angry and has a right to be. That brings on plenty of tension.

I often wonder how much any of us really know about the deep mysteries of living, the hidden things that go on inside us that the theologians call our souls and the psychiatrists call our subconscious. Call it what you will, there are forces in each of us that cannot be controlled by drugs or machines or tricks of medications. These are the forces of good and evil and while they are part of us, we know nothing about them.

Senator Gore Of Tennessee Should Be Forthright Lobby Investigator

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Senator Albert Gore, Teniessee Democrat, picked to carry on the gas lobby probe, is a young senator of unimpeachable integrity who stood up against Senator Lyndon Johnson in backstage discussions of the gas lobby. Gore insisted the whole gas lobby investigation should be broadened.

When Senator Hennings (D., Mo.) was called to Johnson's office to persuade him to side-step the Case investigation—Gore went with him—at Henning's request.

As the hour of two p.m. approached, Gore and Hennings were still closeted with Johnson and Johnson was still arguing that the regular Elections Committee, of which both Hennings and Gore were members, should not investigate. Finally Gore became impatient.

"Let's go.." he told Hennings, "It's after two p.m. and Senator Case was scheduled to meet with us at two."

"Go ahead," shot back Johnson, "I didn't invite you here."

Gore and Mansfield of Montana will be the two Democrats on the regular Elections Committee. They can be depended upon to do a good job. Curtis of Nebraska, the Republican member, has thrown every possible roadblock in the path of any broadened investigation.

Moonshine Raid

Some residents of the nation's capital, especially the lobbyists, have long wished the most terrible fate known to man on me. They would not object to my being boiled in oil—even Superior Oil—or being shoved off the top of the Washington Monument—just accidentally.

I am indebted to the House Appropriations Committee, therefore, for evincing concern about my physical safety.

Some weeks ago, I accompanied Alcohol Tax Unit agents on the raid of a moonshine still near Roanoke, Va. Except for a near case of frostbite, I encountered no grave dangers during the raid, and later portrayed on television the gun-point arrest of the moonshiners. They turned out to be rather friendly fellows, however, and even consented to be interviewed on television.

But the other day, Representative J. Vaughan Gary of Virginia voiced alarm over my part in the drama. He was questioning Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey behind closed doors.

"The committee was rather surprised to hear on the radio and in the press that a newspaper reporter and photographer had accompanied one of the raids of the Alcohol Unit of your department," declared Representative Gary gravely.

"It is entirely possible that a person accompanying a raiding party of that kind could be seriously injured and . . . . present a question as to whether the government should compensate that person for his injuries."

Secretary Humphrey said that he wasn't personally acquainted with the case, but Representative Gary pressed him:

"I am just questioning the propriety of a raiding party going out to raid stills, which we all admit is a very hazardous undertaking, carrying along with them reporters and photographers."

"I do not know Mr. Chairman," replied Humphrey after some thought.

"I do know from watching the television that in some of the shows newspaper reporters unearth a lot of facts. I do not know any more than you do about this, but . . . I should think there should be a good reason for it if they accompany a raiding party."

"If there is a good reason," insisted Gary, "we ought to know about it."

Humphrey promised to "check into it."

"I would kind of like to go myself," he added wistfully.

Communism In Spain

Behind the riot-headlines from Spain are some disturbing facts that indicate our billion dollar investment in Dictator Franco, made at the urging of Franco's $75,000 a year lobbyist, Charles Patrick Clark, rests on shaky ground.

Here are the highlights of the pessimistic intelligence from Spain:

1. Franco is getting old and is tired.

2. The Franco bloc is gradually disintegrating. It's split with bitter internal quarrels between the Monarchists, the Falange youth, and various business groups.

3. There is uneasiness among workers, open revolt among students, a general weariness after 17 years of dictatorship.

The big Spanish problem, as in all dictatorships, is who will replace the dictator when he goes? A democracy is geared to take changes in its stride, but not a dictatorship. A Spanish monarchy would get nowhere. There would be immediate revolt. A change from Franco to some military leaders such as General Munoz Grande or General Garcia Valino would only align two rival army groups against each other.

Flirting With Moscow

But the most serious problem is Spanish flirtation with Russia at the top and a drift toward communism at the bottom.

The Franco government has nothing in common with the democracies except getting American dollars to bolster its regime. But Franco does have something in common with Russia—upsetting the French in North Africa and expanding Spanish domination in that rich area.

For years Franco has been stirring up the Arabs against the French. Now Russia is doing the same; so Franco is comparing notes with Moscow in regard to a common policy in North Africa.

People May Decide If Ike Is To Be Candidate

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Is it up to President Eisenhower to decide now whether he will run for re-election—or will that decision be made by the Republican National Convention on the basis of a candid statement by the President of all the facts in the case?

More and more it looks as if the much-awaited announcement will not be a flat "yes" or "no" but a simple exposition of all the surrounding circumstances so that the American people themselves can really decide the question.

Mr. Eisenhower is not an ambitious man. But, on the other hand, he is not the kind who would shirk duty to the country. For several weeks now he has been wrestling with the question of where that duty lies. Is it in refraining from taking any risk that something might happen to him in the second term? Is it in going ahead and letting fate decide how long he can be of service?

Can't Foretell Future

Plainly no man can tell the future. Mr. Eisenhower, therefore, cannot be expected to make a decision when the doctors who attend him can't make it either. All they have said is that he is physically able to run. The question of whether a man who has had a heart attack should or shouldn't run isn't within the province of the doctors to answer. Nor probably is it the President's obligation to decide.

Throughout recent history it has been taken for granted that a president would run for a second term because of the political axiom that, if his record is any good, he deserves to stand on it and, if it is bad, then no other candidate can stand on it either. But basically most presidents have been reluctant, outwardly at least, to use the presidential office to influence the nominating process for their own interest.

Mr. Eisenhower can say to the country: "I have given you all the facts. My doctors say I can serve a second term. You know the risks as well as I do. If you want to take those risks, I shall be glad to serve you. But if you decide the risks are too great, I shall not be displeased but will attempt to serve you outside of office as conscientiously as I can. But this is a question which it is your privilege to decide, and I shall abide by whatever decision you make."

Willingness Not Real Issue

To say that Mr. Eisenhower would prefer private life and its conveniences at a time of world-wide crisis is to inject a note of personal preference or self-interest. Mr. Eisenhower is by training a soldier. All his life he has learned that the individual obeys the call of duty that comes from his government. Hence, willingness to serve is not the real issue in his mind. It is whether the people consider his health a handicap and whether the Republican party in particular, wants to risk its fortunes at the polls in a campaign in which the health question is bound to be an issue.

Theoretically, the constitutional system of the United States provides for the contingency that has just arisen. The founding fathers provided that two men must be elected—a president and a vice president. Theoretically, too, the American people have the right to draft a man to be president for one year, two years, three years, four years or any fraction of a term in which they desire his services. If they pick a vice president in whom they have confidence, then the party by its nomination and the people by election make the decision as to how the problem of succession is to be taken care of.

Certainly nobody could forsee that Franklin D. Roosevelt would live less than three months in the last term for which he was elected. The American people take the chance, and they expect that the team set up by the incumbent president will take over the executive power and carry on without interrupting the then existing policies.

Changed Without Damage

Three times in a half-century—in 1901, in 1923 and 1945—the nation has seen a vice president take office due to the passing of a president. The country in each case absorbed the shock of change without damage to the national or international policies of the day. For the executive is a large organization—a cabinet and the heads of many independent agencies, all of which continue to carry out the policies laid down by the leader who chose them.

The chances are that Mr. Eisenhower will put the decision up to his associates, to his party and ultimately to the people. It appears that he will accept if nominated and will serve if elected. Until he says otherwise, that must be the assumption between now and next August, when the Republican National Convention meets in San Francisco.

"He Could Step In"

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

If President Eisenhower withdraws, Governor Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts, will become a most serious candidate for the Republican nomination.

Herter will have professional organization and important political and financial backing. And most of the Republican professionals believe that he will have at the least a sporting chance of winning the nomination from such other more obvious candidates as Vice President Richard Nixon and Senator William Knowland.

Indeed, the Herter talk among Republicans is beginning to be a meaningful political phenomenon, rather like the talk about Adlai E. Stevenson among Democrats in the very early days when Stevenson was also little known nationally.

Has "Presidential Smell"

There are several reasons why Herter is being taken more and more seriously as a possible substitute candidate. He has important qualifications, having served ably in both the domestic and foreign policy fields. He is a proven vote-getter. He has, as one admirer put it, " a sort of presidential smell."

He has also been an all-out Eisenhower man from the very first, and finally, he is the only presently visible alternative candidate on whom the amorphous but powerful group of men who were largely responsible for President Eisenhower's nomination could agree.

Vice President Nixon is not such a man. If President Eisenhower withdraws and firmly endorses Nixon as his successor there will be, of course, no really serious opposition to Nixon from the Eisenhower men. Otherwise, there certainly will be.

Indeed there is really considerable underground opposition to Nixon for the second place. This opposition is partly on personal grounds. It also derives partly from the conviction that Nixon, who has acted as a sort of political lightning rod for the administration, would be a drag on the ticket.

Suggested To Eisenhower

Already President Eisenhower has been strongly urged to drop Nixon and replace him with Herter if the President runs again. One urger was Cliff Roberts, banker and golf-playing friend of the President's. Roberts is (or was until a very recent mild heart attack) a part-time member of the so-called "Commodore Regency" of Eisenhower political strategists.

Roberts had a lengthy report on Herter's qualifications prepared, undoubtedly with the knowledge of other members of the regency. On the basis of this report Roberts tried to persuade the President that Herter was better qualified for second place than Nixon. The President was non-committal. But for about a week, according to those who should know, he thought about the matter seriously.

Again according to those who should know, the idea of replacing Nixon with Herter has been rather firmly dismissed, although, of course, it might be revived again if the President decides to run. The idea was dismissed partly because the President genuinely admires the vice president, and partly because of the damaging political implications. But a major argument was also used effectively by Nixon's friends against Herter — that fact that Herter was born in Paris.

Herter's Paris birth is, indeed, the greatest single obstacle to a Herter candidacy. Since he was registered at the American consulate, most lawyers agree that Herter is "natural born," as the Constitution requires. But as long as the matter remains unsettled, a cloud of doubt will hang over the Herter candidacy. The doubt can only be finally dissipated by the Supreme Court.

Powerful Backing Promised

All sorts of ways of getting the Supreme Court to make a ruling well before the Republican convention have been considered. The most hopeful precedent cited is, oddly enough, that of the Progressive party, which got a Supreme Court ruling in 1948 on Henry Wallace's eligibility to go on the Illinois ballot within three weeks of requesting the decision.

The fact that the Paris birth problem is already being considered so carefully suggests how serious the Herter candidacy is — or how serious it could become, if the President withdraws. His supporters have been promised powerful financial and organizational backing in New York, Massachusetts, and elsewhere. Herter has announced that he will not run again for governor, which removes one complication. And he has a significantly full speaking schedule — the invitation to his forthcoming speech at Washington's National Press Club bore the interesting heading "If Ike Steps Out, He Could Step In."

Even "If Ike steps out," Herter has, of course, a long way to go. He is little known nationally, and Massachusetts is no longer the convenient jumping off place for the presidency it once was. Yet, conditional and hedged about the obstacles as it is, the Herter candidacy is interesting, just because it it so hard to think of anyone else on whom the Eisenhower forces could agree.

Formula, Charts Can Predict Height And Weight

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

There is no need to speculate on how tall Tommy will grow or how heavy Mary will get on reaching maturity. Charts for this purpose have been prepared from many measurements taken on children throughout the world over several decades. But for those who are puzzled by charts, Dr. Irving Kowaloff of Forest Hills, N. Y., has prepared the following formula:

At 18 years of age Tom will be twice as tall as he is at 2 and his weight will be five times his weight at age 2. The same applies to girls except that the measurements should be taken at 18 months. If Mary is 30 inches tall when she is 18 months old, she will grow to be a 60 inch, or 5 foot, adult.

Similar predictions are made on the size of the hips. For both sexes, multiply pelvic breadth at 2 years of age by two and the answer will be the hip size at age 18. It is well to remember that breadth is not circumference.

Between World Wars I and II the average height of many children increased because of better nutrition and medical care. It is doubtful whether the stature of our present crop of youngsters will rise as comparable improvements have not been made in the past decade.

These mathematical formulas are based on the assumption that the child will not be subjected to malnutrition, chronic illness, or unfavorable living conditions. These factors interfere with growth and explain why it is so important to maintain optimum nutrition and health during the formative years.

In addition to these formulas, charts have been prepared that predict full growth during any age of childhood. One by Nancy Bayley, for example, states that the average 2-year-old girl has reached 52 per cent of her adult height and boys have reached only 48.5 per cent.

Thus, when Mary is 31¼ inches tall at her second birthday, a prediction of 60 inches was made by dividing 31¼ by 52 and multiplying by 100. If Tommy is 34 inches at 2 years we divide 34 by 48.5 and get a prediction of a 70 inch man. At age 8, a girl has reached 77.6 per cent of her adult height and a boy, 72.4 per cent. At age 12 the percentage for girls is 92.6 and for boys, 84 per cent.

Boys are slightly taller and heavier than girls during the first nine or 10 years. But toward the end of this decade, Mary begins to sprout in all directions and Tom worries about being a midget. Two years later, Tom has his innings and usually passes up his sisters by the time he is 18.

SKIN CANCER AND SUN

REPLY

Yes. For this reason skin cancers are common among farmers, sailors, and sun worshippers particularly those with blond or red hair, fair skin, and blue eyes.

SEVEN MONTHERS

Mrs. E. B. writes: Do 7-month babies ever survive? If so, what is the state of their development?

REPLY

Many of these tykes survive and, except for their size and weight, are fully developed. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on premature infants.

FUSS-BUDGET

Mrs. M. writes: How contagious is a cigaret cough? My husband has this kind of cough and I feel I must disinfect the entire house every day because of the danger that he has spread germs over everything.

REPLY

Coughing tends to spew microorganisms from the mouth but the danger of infection depends upon their nature. All coughs should be stifled with hand or handkerchief for sanitary, health, and esthetic reasons. You seem to be going too far in the opposite direction however, by disinfecting the house. After all, the same germs are there when you get your goodnight kiss.

BLACK TONGUE

M. D. writes: I have had a black tongue for two years. Do you think drinking tea and smoking could cause it?

REPLY

Yes, temporarily. In black tongue (lingua nigra), fingerlike projections are greatly elongated and appear black, brown, or gray. The condition is not serious and in some instances a fungous infection is responsible. We have a leaflet on this disorder that may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

A PATHOLOGY STUDY

L. J. writes: Does a biopsy give information on any other disease except cancer?

REPLY

A biopsy shows whether the tissue is normal or not. Should it prove to be abnormal, the pathologist usually is able to determine whether the cause is inflammation, cancer, or a non-malignant lesion.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Balloons Over Soviet Annoy The Russians

Since the touchy and suspicious Soviets have never had any hesitation about shooting down aerial trespassers on sight, it is not particularly surprising that they are deeply annoyed over the balloons which have been drifting of late across the Russian frontiers.

To the Russian mind the propaganda balloons floated over by Radio Free Europe must have been bad enough. But this must have been nothing to the shock and alarm that was felt when great plastic balloons were found over the Soviet Union carrying radio transmitters, automatic cameras for aerial photography, and other equipment.

The American explanation is simple enough. These are weather balloons sent up in connection with the observance of the International Geophysical Year. Last year the balloons were used over the United States; last month it was announced that the program was being expanded to include Europe, Alaska, and Hawaii.

This is probably the entire story. At best, weather balloons cannot be a very effective way of spying. There is no way to control their course any more accurately than by letting them drift in the direction that the wind generally blows. Unless balloon science is a great deal further advanced than is generally realized, there is scant likelihood of recovering any aerial camera that drifts over the vast spaces of the Soviet Union and recovering its film.

However, most Americans would be highly pleased if the Russian suspicions were justified and American scientists had found a way of using balloons to ferret out Soviet secrets. Considering the effectiveness of the Red spy apparatus, the U. S. deserves to get some of the breaks some of the time.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

It's Cassius' World

Cassius is reputed to have a lean and hungry look. He turns up to be a nasty conspirator with much jealousy and vindictiveness in his system. Yet, the doctors are brain-washing me that I should forego my Falstaffian figure and become a Cassius. Every day, I listen to the advantage of being a skinny guy, one who eats not three meals a day but six, and the six containing about as much food as one of mine used to do.

I am being subjected to a propaganda that I must remove the tensions from my life. How does one live without some kind of tensions? Suppose you get a little excited over the Truman-MacArthur argument, or the Alabama University case, or Marilyn Monroe busting a strap that holds up her dress, or wondering where the money is to come from to meet taxes, or whether Eisenhower or Stevenson or Harriman or Nixon will be the next president, or whether it is really true that MGM is trying to get rid of the liberal, Dore Schary, or whether that sociologist Lee Mortimer really knows the girls he writes about. All these cause emotions and tensions, some of them subconscious, like when you wake up in the morning dreaming that you have finally tripped your worst enemy, only to discover that you have no enemy.

Everybody has tensions but I keep asking why it is that a fellow feels fine, goes to bed with not a thing bothering him, wakes up choking, tells his troubles to his dog, and the next thing he is lying flat on his back and the doctors say, "You have to cut out the tensions." What tensions?

Of course, there are always little things that go wrong but they have gone wrong for many years without being called tensions. There is one fellow I know who never says yes and never says no. He is the supreme buck passer. For some reason, he is a great success in life and has taken very good care of himself, but he never says yes and he never says no. He is like the Yankee who was asked about the weather and said: "It's a nice day if it doesn't cloud over."

I suppose such a fellow has no tensions. He probably finds a way of dodging every great issue in his life by manipulating it into somebody else's lap. But most of us do not like to duck a fight or to compromise everything in life, even what we are to have for dinner. If it were not for the fighters, the so-called controversial people, there would never have been any human progress. The first fellow that got fooling around with fire must have startled his family and neighbors and most of them must have said to him, "Why not let well enough alone." But he monkeyed with stone and flint or whatever he used until he had a blaze and then they cooked a sheep or a pig or whatever it was that the first man cooked.

That was one of the great revolutions of all time and it must have scared the folks enough to give several of them coronaries. But it came out good, according to their uncultivated tastes. It must have produced tension when people along the seacoast began to eat oysters, clams, lobsters and such monstrous things. Man learned most that he knows through his tensions, even if occasionally it produces a coronary.

I watch these doctors who keep me prone and I wonder whether their great knowledge about tensions has helped them any in their private lives. How do they assuage their wives who want to know why? That takes some doing, assuaging a wife. Maybe they have worked out a way of doing it without tension, although it would be necessary to get the wife to join in the conspiracy against tension. Just to get her to keep her voice down, takes some doing when a wife is really angry and has a right to be. That brings on plenty of tension.

I often wonder how much any of us really know about the deep mysteries of living, the hidden things that go on inside us that the theologians call our souls and the psychiatrists call our subconscious. Call it what you will, there are forces in each of us that cannot be controlled by drugs or machines or tricks of medications. These are the forces of good and evil and while they are part of us, we know nothing about them.

Senator Gore Of Tennessee Should Be Forthright Lobby Investigator

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Senator Albert Gore, Teniessee Democrat, picked to carry on the gas lobby probe, is a young senator of unimpeachable integrity who stood up against Senator Lyndon Johnson in backstage discussions of the gas lobby. Gore insisted the whole gas lobby investigation should be broadened.

When Senator Hennings (D., Mo.) was called to Johnson's office to persuade him to side-step the Case investigation—Gore went with him—at Henning's request.

As the hour of two p.m. approached, Gore and Hennings were still closeted with Johnson and Johnson was still arguing that the regular Elections Committee, of which both Hennings and Gore were members, should not investigate. Finally Gore became impatient.

"Let's go," he told Hennings, "It's after two p.m. and Senator Case was scheduled to meet with us at two."

"Go ahead," shot back Johnson, "I didn't invite you here."

Gore and Mansfield of Montana will be the two Democrats on the regular Elections Committee. They can be depended upon to do a good job. Curtis of Nebraska, the Republican member, has thrown every possible roadblock in the path of any broadened investigation.

Moonshine Raid

Some residents of the nation's capital, especially the lobbyists, have long wished the most terrible fate known to man on me. They would not object to my being boiled in oil—even Superior Oil—or being shoved off the top of the Washington Monument—just accidentally.

I am indebted to the House Appropriations Committee, therefore, for evincing concern about my physical safety.

Some weeks ago, I accompanied Alcohol Tax Unit agents on the raid of a moonshine still near Roanoke, Va. Except for a near case of frostbite, I encountered no grave dangers during the raid, and later portrayed on television the gun-point arrest of the moonshiners. They turned out to be rather friendly fellows, however, and even consented to be interviewed on television.

But the other day, Representative J. Vaughan Gary of Virginia voiced alarm over my part in the drama. He was questioning Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey behind closed doors.

"The committee was rather surprised to hear on the radio and in the press that a newspaper reporter and photographer had accompanied one of the raids of the Alcohol Unit of your department," declared Representative Gary gravely.

"It is entirely possible that a person accompanying a raiding party of that kind could be seriously injured and . . . . present a question as to whether the government should compensate that person for his injuries."

Secretary Humphrey said that he wasn't personally acquainted with the case, but Representative Gary pressed him:

"I am just questioning the propriety of a raiding party going out to raid stills, which we all admit is a very hazardous undertaking, carrying along with them reporters and photographers."

"I do not know Mr. Chairman," replied Humphrey after some thought.

"I do know from watching the television that in some of the shows newspaper reporters unearth a lot of facts. I do not know any more than you do about this, but . . . I should think there should be a good reason for it if they accompany a raiding party."

"If there is a good reason," insisted Gary, "we ought to know about it."

Humphrey promised to "check into it."

"I would kind of like to go myself," he added wistfully.

Communism In Spain

Behind the riot-headlines from Spain are some disturbing facts that indicate our billion dollar investment in Dictator Franco, made at the urging of Franco's $75,000 a year lobbyist, Charles Patrick Clark, rests on shaky ground.

Here are the highlights of the pessimistic intelligence from Spain:

1. Franco is getting old and is tired.

2. The Franco bloc is gradually disintegrating. It's split with bitter internal quarrels between the Monarchists, the Falange youth, and various business groups.

3. There is uneasiness among workers, open revolt among students, a general weariness after 17 years of dictatorship.

The big Spanish problem, as in all dictatorships, is who will replace the dictator when he goes? A democracy is geared to take changes in its stride, but not a dictatorship. A Spanish monarchy would get nowhere. There would be immediate revolt. A change from Franco to some military leaders such as General Munoz Grande or General Garcia Valino would only align two rival army groups against each other.

Flirting With Moscow

But the most serious problem is Spanish flirtation with Russia at the top and a drift toward communism at the bottom.

The Franco government has nothing in common with the democracies except getting American dollars to bolster its regime. But Franco does have something in common with Russia—upsetting the French in North Africa and expanding Spanish domination in that rich area.

For years Franco has been stirring up the Arabs against the French. Now Russia is doing the same; so Franco is comparing notes with Moscow in regard to a common policy in North Africa.

People May Decide If Ike Is To Be Candidate

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Is it up to President Eisenhower to decide now whether he will run for re-election—or will that decision be made by the Republican National Convention on the basis of a candid statement by the President of all the facts in the case?

More and more it looks as if the much-awaited announcement will not be a flat "yes" or "no" but a simple exposition of all the surrounding circumstances so that the American people themselves can really decide the question.

Mr. Eisenhower is not an ambitious man. But, on the other hand, he is not the kind who would shirk duty to the country. For several weeks now he has been wrestling with the question of where that duty lies. Is it in refraining from taking any risk that something might happen to him in the second term? Is it in going ahead and letting fate decide how long he can be of service?

Can't Foretell Future

Plainly no man can tell the future. Mr. Eisenhower, therefore, cannot be expected to make a decision when the doctors who attend him can't make it either. All they have said is that he is physically able to run. The question of whether a man who has had a heart attack should or shouldn't run isn't within the province of the doctors to answer. Nor probably is it the President's obligation to decide.

Throughout recent history it has been taken for granted that a president would run for a second term because of the political axiom that, if his record is any good, he deserves to stand on it and, if it is bad, then no other candidate can stand on it either. But basically most presidents have been reluctant, outwardly at least, to use the presidential office to influence the nominating process for their own interest.

Mr. Eisenhower can say to the country: "I have given you all the facts. My doctors say I can serve a second term. You know the risks as well as I do. If you want to take those risks, I shall be glad to serve you. But if you decide the risks are too great, I shall not be displeased but will attempt to serve you outside of office as conscientiously as I can. But this is a question which it is your privilege to decide, and I shall abide by whatever decision you make."

Willingness Not Real Issue

To say that Mr. Eisenhower would prefer private life and its conveniences at a time of world-wide crisis is to inject a note of personal preference or self-interest. Mr. Eisenhower is by training a soldier. All his life he has learned that the individual obeys the call of duty that comes from his government. Hence, willingness to serve is not the real issue in his mind. It is whether the people consider his health a handicap and whether the Republican party in particular, wants to risk its fortunes at the polls in a campaign in which the health question is bound to be an issue.

Theoretically, the constitutional system of the United States provides for the contingency that has just arisen. The founding fathers provided that two men must be elected—a president and a vice president. Theoretically, too, the American people have the right to draft a man to be president for one year, two years, three years, four years or any fraction of a term in which they desire his services. If they pick a vice president in whom they have confidence, then the party by its nomination and the people by election make the decision as to how the problem of succession is to be taken care of.

Certainly nobody could foresee that Franklin D. Roosevelt would live less than three months in the last term for which he was elected. The American people take the chance, and they expect that the team set up by the incumbent president will take over the executive power and carry on without interrupting the then existing policies.

Changed Without Damage

Three times in a half-century—in 1901, in 1923 and 1945—the nation has seen a vice president take office due to the passing of a president. The country in each case absorbed the shock of change without damage to the national or international policies of the day. For the executive is a large organization—a cabinet and the heads of many independent agencies, all of which continue to carry out the policies laid down by the leader who chose them.

The chances are that Mr. Eisenhower will put the decision up to his associates, to his party and ultimately to the people. It appears that he will accept if nominated and will serve if elected. Until he says otherwise, that must be the assumption between now and next August, when the Republican National Convention meets in San Francisco.

"He Could Step In"

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

If President Eisenhower withdraws, Governor Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts, will become a most serious candidate for the Republican nomination.

Herter will have professional organization and important political and financial backing. And most of the Republican professionals believe that he will have at the least a sporting chance of winning the nomination from such other more obvious candidates as Vice President Richard Nixon and Senator William Knowland.

Indeed, the Herter talk among Republicans is beginning to be a meaningful political phenomenon, rather like the talk about Adlai E. Stevensor among Democrats in the very early days when Stevenson was also little known nationally.

Has "Presidential Smell"

There are several reasons why Herter is being taken more and more seriously as a possible substitute candidate. He has important qualifications, having served ably in both the domestic and foreign policy fields. He is a proven vote-getter. He has, as one admirer put it, " a sort of presidential smell."

He has also been an all-out Eisenhower man from the very first, and finally, he is the only presently visible alternative candidate on whom the amorphous but powerful group of men who were largely responsible for President Eisenhower's nomination could agree.

Vice President Nixon is not such a man. If President Eisenhower withdraws and firmly endorses Nixon as his successor there will be, of course, no really serious opposition to Nixon from the Eisenhower men. Otherwise, there certainly will be.

Indeed there is really considerable underground opposition to Nixon for the second place. This opposition is partly on personal grounds. It also derives partly from the conviction that Nixon, who has acted as a sort of political lightning rod for the administration, would be a drag on the ticket.

Suggested To Eisenhower

Already President Eisenhower has been strongly urged to drop Nixon and replace him with Herter if the President runs again. One urger was Cliff Roberts, banker and golf-playing friend of the President's. Roberts is (or was until a very recent mild heart attack) a part-time member of the so-called "Commodore Regency" of Eisenhower political strategists.

Roberts had a lengthy report on Herter's qualifications prepared, undoubtedly with the knowledge of other members of the regency. On the basis of this report Roberts tried to persuade the President that Herter was better qualified for second place than Nixon. The President was non-committal. But for about a week, according to those who should know, he thought about the matter seriously.

Again according to those who should know, the idea of replacing Nixon with Herter has been rather firmly dismissed, although, of course, it might be revived again if the President decides to run. The idea was dismissed partly because the President genuinely admires the vice president, and partly because of the damaging political implications. But a major argument was also used effectively by Nixon's friends against Herter — that fact that Herter was born in Paris.

Herter's Paris birth is, indeed, the greatest single obstacle to a Herter candidacy. Since he was registered at the American consulate, most lawyers agree that Herter is "natural born," as the Constitution requires. But as long as the matter remains unsettled, a cloud of doubt will hang over the Herter candidacy. The doubt can only be finally dissipated by the Supreme Court.

Powerful Backing Promised

All sorts of ways of getting the Supreme Court to make a ruling well before the Republican convention have been considered. The most hopeful precedent cited is, oddly enough, that of the Progressive party, which got a Supreme Court ruling in 1948 on Henry Wallace's eligibility to go on the Illinois ballot within three weeks of requesting the decision.

The fact that the Paris birth problem is already being considered so carefully suggests how serious the Herter candidacy is — or how serious it could become, if the President withdraws. His supporters have been promised powerful financial and organizational backing in New York, Massachusetts, and elsewhere. Herter has announced that he will not run again for governor, which removes one complication. And he has a significantly full speaking schedule — the invitation to his forthcoming speech at Washington's National Press Club bore the interesting heading "If Ike Steps Out, He Could Step In."

Even "If Ike steps out," Herter has, of course, a long way to go. He is little known nationally, and Massachusetts is no longer the convenient jumping off place for the presidency it once was. Yet, conditional and hedged about the obstacles as it is, the Herter candidacy is interesting, just because it it so hard to think of anyone else on whom the Eisenhower forces could agree.

M. D. writes: I have had a black tongue for two years. Do you think drinking tea and smoking could cause it?

REPLY

Yes, temporarily. In black tongue (lingua nigra), fingerlike projections are greatly elongated and appear black, brown, or gray. The condition is not serious and in some instances a fungous infection is responsible. We have a leaflet on this disorder that may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

A PATHOLOGY STUDY

L. J. writes: Does a biopsy give information on any other disease except cancer?

REPLY

A biopsy shows whether the tissue is normal or not. Should it prove to be abnormal, the pathologist usually is able to determine whether the cause is inflammation, cancer, or a non-malignant lesion.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

In Baltimore, Harry Paroissien, of Penguin Books, received an order from The Admiral's Bookshop, Venice, Florida, signed by V. G. Butcher. Paroissien wrote thanking Miss Butcher for her interest. Back came this reply:

"I do hope that, in addressing me as Miss Butcher, you have not pictured some cute little blonde, redhead, or what not, as I am a bronzed, whitehaired old Englishman of 70, late admiral, before retirement, in Her Majesty's Navy!"

Wonderful limerick by Ogden Nash:

There was a young belle in old Natchez
Whose garments were always in patchez.
When comment arose
On the state of her clothes,
She drawled, "When ah itchez, ah scratchez!"

Westernport Water Main Leak Found

Crews To Start Repairs Today

WESTERNPORT — Workmen, after a two-day search, yesterday discovered a leak that has been wasting the town's water supply, and plans have been made to complete full repairs today.

City crews walked the line to Savage River Dam on Tuesday but were unable to spot the break. Yesterday, the gates at Savage River Dam were closed, so the level of the stream dropped permitting examination of the line at the nine points where the main crosses the stream. The break was found near the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Mill wood yard in the vicinity of Bloomington.

According to Mayor Okey Michael, Westernport's water supply is about one-half of normal, but after the leak in this major main is repaired today, the situation should improve.

Westernport Water Main Leak Found

Crews To Start Repairs Today

WESTERNPORT — Workmen, after a two-day search, yesterday discovered a leak that has been wasting the town's water supply, and plans have been made to complete full repairs today.

City crews walked the line to Savage River Dam on Tuesday but were unable to spot the break. Yesterday, the gates at Savage River Dam were closed, so the level of the stream dropped permitting examination of the line at the nine points where the main crosses the stream. The break was found near the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Mill wood yard in the vicinity of Bloomington.

According to Mayor Okey Michael, Westernport's water supply is about one-half of normal, but after the leak in this major main is repaired today, the situation should improve.

Garrett Vote Machine Suit Is Redocketed

Original Case Is Withdrawn

OAKLAND — The Board of Election Supervisors has withdrawn and refiled a bill of complaint against the Garrett County Commissioners in which it charges the commissioners exceeded their authority in approving purchase of voting machines from the Shoup Voting Machine Corporation.

The original suit was withdrawn as the result of a misunderstanding which prompted one of the election supervisors, William O. Treacy, minority board member, to file a petition asking his name be stricken from the complaint against the commissioners.

But Horace P. Whitworth Jr., who has been designated by the board to handle the case, said the original complaint was passed by majority members, William Gibson and Francis Sanders, at a meeting Treacy did not attend. An official meeting was called later with all supervisors present. Treacy officially voted "no" and the complaint filed under the same 2-1 vote by the board.

Treacy had claimed the board never in a regular or special meeting authorized the original suit to be instituted.

Next step in the legal maneuvering is for the attorney to the board of commissioners, Dwight Stover, to file a reply and then the case will be set down for a hearing.

The original bill of complaint was filed January 31 in behalf of the supervisors.

The Board of Election Supervisors passed a resolution by a majority vote on January 9 ordering the purchase of 36 manual type voting machines from the Automatic Voting Machine corporation and asked for approval of the county commissioners. The county commissioners refused approval and in return notified the supervisors they would approve the purchase of voting machines from the Shoup Voting Machine corporation.

Bids received from the two companies showed that 36 electrically operated voting machines from the Automatic Voting Machine company would be provided at a cost of $53,064, with the same number of voting machines being offered by the Shoup Voting Machine corporation for $50,801.12. Manually operated machines are $100 less per machine for either Automatic or Shoup.

Mahoney Forces

be a candidate against him. This support can quickly be withdrawn. This is true of Mahoney's endorsement in other places that I happen to know of. . . .

"As I told a Democrat this morning this situation as it is now shaping up looks bad, and while I am not anxious to be a candidate, somebody has got to straighten this matter out.

"Therefore, if you feel this will be helpful and in the manner I have suggested, go ahead. If not, forget it. . . ."

Lednum said he replied that while he would like very much to support Tydings, he now feels it is too late for him to enter the race. He said he was making the letter public because he felt that the "draft Tydings" movement no longer required him not to.

Tydings said last Monday he would run for the Senate if the draft movement gave any hope of success.

Support "Undivided"

Birmingham in his statement said the State Central Committee of Baltimore County still recommended "complete and undivided support" of Mahoney.

He added, "After a thorough check of the State, I find strong reaffirmation of the endorsements heretofore given Mr. Mahoney's candidacy."

Sixty-three Wicomico County Democrats—including all the county commissioners—petitioned Tydings on Wednesday to run again for the Senate. Clarence W. Miles, Baltimore lawyer and onetime Democratic possibility himself, announced he would support Tydings if he runs.

In another political development, Hamilton P. Fox, serving his second term as state's attorney of Wicomico County, announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to Congress from the 1st (Eastern Shore) District. The seat is now held by Rep. Edward T. Miller, Republican serving his sixth term.

Frostburg Gets Safety Award

Frostburg's Police Commissioner, Arthur Thomas, is shown receiving the National Traffic Safety Contest Honor Roll Award for 1954 from Lynn Walker, executive chairman of the Western Maryland Safety Committee. Walker presented the award Monday on behalf of the National Safety Council pointing out that Frostburg has won the award for 1951, 52, 53, and 54. The last traffic fatality occurred in the city in 1950. Walker also pointed out that Frostburg is "Safety Conscious" and this is also reflected in the fact that they also received citations for having no pedestrian fatalities for 1949, 50, 51, 52, 53, and 54. Standing at the left is Edward Flanigan, secretary of the Mountain Traffic Safety Committee appointed by the Mayor late last year and between Thomas and Walker stands Lloyd Truly, chief of police.

Radio Permit Being Sought

Application for a new radio station in Cumberland will be filed soon with the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D. C.

Grant Wood, Silver Spring real estate man, announced yesterday he is definitely interested in the city as the site for a new station, his first venture into the field.

Wood's announcement followed revelation by the owner of WDYK of plans to sell the station to WCUM, with the latter taking the WDYK frequency. Then, it is understood, WCUM will sell physical assets of WDYK to WTBO which would move from its present headquarters in the Commercial Bank Building to the WDYK building on Byrd Avenue. WTBO would retain its frequency.

Wood, who said he had been in the radio, music and entertainment field before entering real estate, conferred with Commissioner Willian H. Buchholtz yesterday concerning zoning regulations and said he was here to look for sites for an antenna and station.

This is not the first time Wood has been interested in Cumberland as a station site. Several years ago, he said, he had looked into the possibility but had been reluctant because of economic conditions which existed at that time.

Yesterday, however, Wood said the outlook here is excellent, the economic picture is good and the future offers "great possibilities."

Work is already under way on his application for the station here, Wood added.

The station would be an independent operation with the possibility of tying in with a major network later.

Original Case Is Withdrawn

OAKLAND — The Board of Election Supervisors has withdrawn and refiled a bill of complaint against the Garrett County Commissioners in which it charges the commissioners exceeded their authority in approving purchase of voting machines from the Shoup Voting Machine Corporation.

The original suit was withdrawn as the result of a misunderstanding which prompted one of the election supervisors, William O. Treacy, minority board member, to file a petition asking his name be stricken from the complaint against the commissioners.

But Horace P. Whitworth Jr., who has been designated by the board to handle the case, said the original complaint was passed by majority members, William Gibson and Francis Sanders, at a meeting Treacy did not attend. An official meeting was called later with all supervisors present. Treacy officially voted "no" and the complaint filed under the same 2-1 vote by the board.

Treacy had claimed the board never in a regular or special meeting authorized the original suit to be instituted.

Next step in the legal maneuvering is for the attorney to the board of commissioners, Dwight Stover, to file a reply and then the case will be set down for a hearing.

The original bill of complaint was filed January 31 in behalf of the supervisors.

The Board of Election Supervisors passed a resolution by a majority vote on January 9 ordering the purchase of 36 manual type voting machines from the Automatic Voting Machine corporation and asked for approval of the county commissioners. The county commissioners refused approval and in return notified the supervisors they would approve the purchase of voting machines from the Shoup Voting Machine corporation.

Bids received from the two companies showed that 36 electrically operated voting machines from the Automatic Voting Machine company would be provided at a cost of $53,064, with the same number of voting machines being offered by the Shoup Voting Machine corporation for $50,801.12. Manually operated machines are $100 less per machine for either Automatic or Shoup.

Mahoney Forces

be a candidate against him. This support can quickly be withdrawn. This is true of Mahoney's endorsement in other places that I happen to know of. . . .

"As I told a Democrat this morning this situation as it is now shaping up looks bad, and while I am not anxious to be a candidate, somebody has got to straighten this matter out.

"Therefore, if you feel this will be helpful and in the manner I have suggested, go ahead. If not, forget it. . . ."

Lednum said he replied that while he would like very much to support Tydings, he now feels it is too late for him to enter the race. He said he was making the letter public because he felt that the "draft Tydings" movement no longer required him not to.

Tydings said last Monday he would run for the Senate if the draft movement gave any hope of success.

Support "Undivided"

Birmingham in his statement said the State Central Committee of Baltimore County still recommended "complete and undivided support" of Mahoney.

He added, "After a thorough check of the State, I find strong reaffirmation of the endorsements heretofore given Mr. Mahoney's candidacy."

Sixty-three Wicomico County Democrats—including all the county commissioners—petitioned Tydings on Wednesday to run again for the Senate. Clarence W. Miles, Baltimore lawyer and onetime Democratic possibility himself, announced he would support Tydings if he runs.

In another political development, Hamilton P. Fox, serving his second term as state's attorney of Wicomico County, announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to Congress from the 1st (Eastern Shore) District. The seat is now held by Rep. Edward T. Miller, Republican serving his sixth term.

Frostburg Gets Safety Award

Frostburg's Police Commissioner, Arthur Thomas, is shown receiving the National Traffic Safety Contest Honor Roll Award for 1954 from Lynn Walker, executive chairman of the Western Maryland Safety Committee. Walker presented the award Monday on behalf of the National Safety Council pointing out that Frostburg has won the award for 1951, 52, 53, and 54. The last traffic fatality occurred in the city in 1950. Walker also pointed out that Frostburg is "Safety Conscious" and this is also reflected in the fact that they also received citations for having no pedestrian fatalities for 1949, 50, 51, 52, 53, and 54. Standing at the left is Edward Flanigan, secretary of the Mountain Traffic Safety Committee appointed by the Mayor late last year and between Thomas and Walker stands Lloyd Truly, chief of police.

Radio Permit Being Sought

Application for a new radio station in Cumberland will be filed soon with the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D. C.

Grant Wood, Silver Spring real estate man, announced yesterday he is definitely interested in the city as the site for a new station, his first venture into the field.

Wood's announcement followed revelation by the owner of WDYK of plans to sell the station to WCUM, with the latter taking the WDYK frequency. Then, it is understood, WCUM will sell physical assets of WDYK to WTBO which would move from its present headquarters in the Commercial Bank Building to the WDYK building on Byrd Avenue. WTBO would retain its frequency.

Wood, who said he had been in the radio, music and entertainment field before entering real estate, conferred with Commissioner Willian H. Buchholtz yesterday concerning zoning regulations and said he was here to look for sites for an antenna and station.

This is not the first time Wood has been interested in Cumberland as a station site. Several years ago, he said, he had looked into the possibility but had been reluctant because of economic conditions which existed at that time.

Yesterday, however, Wood said the outlook here is excellent, the economic picture is good and the future offers "great possibilities."

Work is already under way on his application for the station here, Wood added.

Mutual Accord Reached Between Canada Teams And NFL

Pro Football Heads Unable To Limit Pay

Bell And Cooper To Recognize Contracts And Options On File

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15 (AP) — There appears to be no end to professional football's international war of dollars even though the National Football League and the Canadian pros are close to settling many of their mutual problems.

Bert Bell, commissioner of the AFL, and Ralph Cooper, chairman of the Canadian Football Council, agreed in principle today on almost all of the thorny problems and conflicts between the two organizations, but admitted there was nothing they could do about soaring salaries.

Bert said, and Cooper assented, "We can't and don't want to do anything that will restrain the rights of players. If they are free agents—players not under contract or option to either league—the highest bidder will get the man."

Recognize Contracts

Bell and Cooper did agree to recognize contracts and options already on file in league offices. In plain English, they agreed not to raid each other of player talent.

The two football executives met at a mid-town hotel in a unique open forum. The press sat in on the open and frank discussions and was allowed to interrupt with questions on any point.

Bell opened the session with the statement that he had "absolute authority to make any deal with Canadian football I feel fair and just."

Cooper, who represented the nine teams which make up the Canadian Big Four and Western Interprovincial leagues, replied that he did not have such authority.

Is One Stumbling Block

"I am here to talk over an agreement whereby we can recognize each other's contracts and options. We desire to tie our group closer to the National Football League. I will carry back what is discussed here to a meeting of the Canadian teams in Toronto on March 1. I hope that at that time we will be able to finalize these discussions and make a formal agreement."

Both Bell and Cooper agreed there was one stumbling block in the way of the two leagues reaching any agreement. That is the problem of what each league considers the other's past indiscretions in "stealing" ball players allegedly under contract or option. Cooper presented a list of 13 players Canada wants back and Bell a list of 45 the NFL would like returned.

Bell, in answer to a question as to whether the NFL would consider an agreement forgetting the past, said, "No, there are some adjustments which have to be made."

Santee Warns Of Legal Suit Against AAU

Miler Threatens Action If Barred

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Counsel for Kansas miler Wes Santee issued a warning today that he would file a suit for damages "if any libelous statement of any nature whatever" is made at a hearing of a National AAU investigating committee Sunday.

In a letter to Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the AAU, Santee's attorney demanded "that the AAU revoke any existing suspension of Santee and make public announcement to that effect."

Santee, a lieutenant in the Marine Corps stationed at Quantico, Va., was in New York yesterday and threatened legal action if he is barred from running in the 1956 Olympic Games at Melbourne.

The Missouri Valley AAU suspended Santee last Oct. 11 on charges that he took "excessive expenses" for three California track meets in May. The suspension was lifted, however, Nov. 20 by the Missouri Valley AAU board of managers on grounds of insufficient evidence.

But the AAU set up an investigating committee to again look into the case, and Santee withdrew from indoor track meets in the East.

The letter to Ferris was written by Charles P. Grimes, representing Santee. He said:

"This is to inform the executive committee and the so-called 'secret seven' committee of the AAU, that if any libelous statement of any nature whatever is made against Wes Santee by either committee or any member thereof at or in connection with next Sunday's meeting, Santee will institute suit against certain persons for damages commensurate with any libel committed."

The letter said that committee members would be required to substantiate any "derogatory statements" in full by evidence "which is admissible in court under the common law rules of evidence."

Bob Lemon Agrees To Tribe Contract

CLEVELAND, Feb. 15 (AP) — Bob Lemon, who may pitch his 200th victory sometime next summer, phoned here from his home in Long Beach, Calif., today and agreed to his 1956 contract, the Cleveland Indians said.

As usual, the Indians declined to discuss salary terms. But it was believed Lemon took a cut of $5,000 to around $40,000, a figure which still leaves him the highest paid player on the Tribe roster.

The 35-year-old converted infielder, twice sidelined by injuries last year, managed to win 18 games against 10 losses and tie Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees and Frank Sullivan of the Boston Red Sox for the most victories in the American League. He started 31 games, appeared in relief in four others and had an earned run average of 3.70.

A right-hander, Lemon has won 181 victories for Cleveland since he gave up the infield for the mound. He has had six 20-game seasons within the past eight years, the last in 1954 with his best mark of 23.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 15 (AP)—Catcher Rube Walker, outfielder Dick Williams and shortstop Jasper Spears have signed contracts making a total of 37 Dodgers in the fold, Brooklyn officials said today. four more signatures and the world champions will have the entire club set for the year.

Walker hit .252 as second string for Roy Campanella last season. Williams, who had been up with the Dodgers before, batted .317 for Fort Worth, to earn another crack with the Brooks. Spears, 25, is getting his first chance with the Dodgers. He hit .262 for St. Paul last year and led American Association shortstops in total chances, assists and double plays.

Turley Is Slimmer

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP) — A slimmed-down Bob Turley, fireball righthander of the New York Yankees, signed his 1956 contract today for a reported $15,000. He became the 28th Yankee to agree to terms.

Turley reported from his San Antonio, Tex. home that he had cut himself down to 200 pounds or 15 pounds lighter than he's ever weighed in the majors.

Pyburn Seeks Post

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 15 (AP)—Baltimore rookie outfielder Jim Pyburn has his sights set on making the grade with the Orioles this year, he told Birmingham's Hot Stove League.

The former Auburn end emphasized last night that even though the Washington Redskins named him in the National Football League draft, his first love is baseball.

"I'm not saying I still wouldn't like to try pro football," said Pyburn, "but that would be only four or five years from now and after I had failed at baseball."

Mutual Accord Reached Between Canada Teams And NFL

Bell And Cooper To Recognize Contracts And Options On File

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15 (AP) — There appears to be no end to professional football's international war of dollars even though the National Football League and the Canadian pros are close to settling many of their mutual problems.

Bert Bell, commissioner of the AFL, and Ralph Cooper, chairman of the Canadian Football Council, agreed in principle today on almost all of the thorny problems and conflicts between the two organizations, but admitted there was nothing they could do about soaring salaries.

Bert said, and Cooper assented, "We can't and don't want to do anything that will restrain the rights of players. If they are free agents—players not under contract or option to either league—the highest bidder will get the man."

Recognize Contracts

Bell and Cooper did agree to recognize contracts and options already on file in league offices. In plain English, they agreed not to raid each other of player talent.

The two football executives met at a mid-town hotel in a unique open forum. The press sat in on the open and frank discussions and was allowed to interrupt with questions on any point.

Bell opened the session with the statement that he had "absolute authority to make any deal with Canadian football I feel fair and just."

Cooper, who represented the nine teams which make up the Canadian Big Four and Western Interprovincial leagues, replied that he did not have such authority.

Is One Stumbling Block

"I am here to talk over an agreement whereby we can recognize each other's contracts and options. We desire to tie our group closer to the National Football League. I will carry back what is discussed here to a meeting of the Canadian teams in Toronto on March 1. I hope that at that time we will be able to finalize these discussions and make a formal agreement."

Both Bell and Cooper agreed there was one stumbling block in the way of the two leagues reaching any agreement. That is the problem of what each league considers the other's past indiscretions in "stealing" ball players allegedly under contract or option. Cooper presented a list of 13 players Canada wants back and Bell a list of 45 the NFL would like returned.

Bell, in answer to a question as to whether the NFL would consider an agreement forgetting the past, said, "No, there are some adjustments which have to be made."

Lausse Streak Ends

CHICAGO, Feb. 15 (AP)—Chicago's Bobby Boyd ended Argentine Eduardo Lausse's undefeated string at 32 with a split 10-round decision in a savage middleweight bout at the Chicago Stadium tonight.

The harvest fish is so named from the time of its annual appearance at harvest time. It is much like the pompano in shape.

Miler Threatens Action If Barred

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Counsel for Kansas miler Wes Santee issued a warning today that he would file a suit for damages "if any libelous statement of any nature whatever" is made at a hearing of a National AAU investigating committee Sunday.

In a letter to Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the AAU, Santee's attorney demanded "that the AAU revoke any existing suspension of Santee and make public announcement to that effect."

Santee, a lieutenant in the Marine Corps stationed at Quantico, Va., was in New York yesterday and threatened legal action if he is barred from running in the 1956 Olympic Games at Melbourne.

The Missouri Valley AAU suspended Santee last Oct. 11 on charges that he took "excessive expenses" for three California track meets in May. The suspension was lifted, however, Nov. 20 by the Missouri Valley AAU board of managers on grounds of insufficient evidence.

But the AAU set up an investigating committee to again look into the case, and Santee withdrew from indoor track meets in the East.

The letter to Ferris was written by Charles P. Grimes, representing Santee. He said:

"This is to inform the executive committee and the so-called 'secret seven' committee of the AAU, that if any libelous statement of any nature whatever is made against Wes Santee by either committee or any member thereof at or in connection with next Sunday's meeting, Santee will institute suit against certain persons for damages commensurate with any libel committed."

The letter said that committee members would be required to substantiate any "derogatory statements" in full by evidence "which is admissible in court under the common law rules of evidence."

Bob Lemon Agrees To Tribe Contract

CLEVELAND, Feb. 15 (AP) — Bob Lemon, who may pitch his 200th victory sometime next summer, phoned here from his home in Long Beach, Calif., today and agreed to his 1956 contract, the Cleveland Indians said.

As usual, the Indians declined to discuss salary terms. But it was believed Lemon took a cut of $5,000 to around $40,000, a figure which still leaves him the highest paid player on the Tribe roster.

The 35-year-old converted infielder, twice sidelined by injuries last year, managed to win 18 games against 10 losses and tie Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees and Frank Sullivan of the Boston Red Sox for the most victories in the American League. He started 31 games, appeared in relief in four others and had an earned run average of 3.70.

A right-hander, Lemon has won 181 victories for Cleveland since he gave up the infield for the mound. He has had six 20-game seasons within the past eight years, the last in 1954 with his best mark of 23.

37 Dodgers In Fold

BROOKLYN, Feb. 15 (AP)—Catcher Rube Walker, outfielder Dick Williams and shortstop Jasper Spears have signed contracts making a total of 37 Dodgers in the fold, Brooklyn officials said today. four more signatures and the world champions will have the entire club set for the year.

Walker hit .252 as second string for Roy Campanella last season. Williams, who had been up with the Dodgers before, batted .317 for Fort Worth, to earn another crack with the Brooks. Spears, 25, is getting his first chance with the Dodgers. He hit .262 for St. Paul last year and led American Association shortstops in total chances, assists and double plays.

Lopata Signs Pact

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 15 (AP)—Catcher Stan Lopata has signed his contract with Philadelphia, Gen. Mgr. Roy Hamey announced today.

This brings to 27 the number of players in the Phillies camp.

Turley Is Slimmer

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP) — A slimmed-down Bob Turley, fireball righthander of the New York Yankees, signed his 1956 contract today for a reported $15,000. He became the 28th Yankee to agree to terms.

Turley reported from his San Antonio, Tex. home that he had cut himself down to 200 pounds or 15 pounds lighter than he's ever weighed in the majors.

Pyburn Seeks Post

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 15 (AP)—Baltimore rookie outfielder Jim Pyburn has his sights set on making the grade with the Orioles this year, he told Birmingham's Hot Stove League.

The former Auburn end emphasized last night that even though the Washington Redskins named him in the National Football League draft, his first love is baseball.

"I'm not saying I still wouldn't like to try pro football," said Pyburn, "but that would be only four or five years from now and after I had failed at baseball."

Camp Opens Mar. 14

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—Farm Director Jim McLaughlin of the Baltimore Orioles announced today that the minor league central training camp opens at Thomasville Ga., March

Funds Are Provided For Planning Work On Potomac Dams

Rep. Harley O. Staggers (D-W.Va.) said yesterday Congress has appropriated funds to start plans on a flood control, low flow supplementation, water supply, pollution abatement and other related subjects on the North Branch of the Potomac River and its tributaries above Cumberland and Ridgeley.

Office work on the project is underway, the Second District representative, said, and U. S. Army Engineers are expected in the area within a month. Some aerial mapping will also be done, Staggers added.

The project includes nine dams which would be located entirely within Grant County and for the most part flood over waste or unused lands, Staggers has said.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

THINK BEFORE YOU TRAP

"TRAPPING" is something of an art at the bridge table, and only the ablest tacticians should attempt it. Obviously, this advice applies specifically to such players as North in the following deal.

South dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠ A Q J 7 ♥ J ♦ A K 9 6 2 ♣ A Q 2
♠ K 10 8 5 4 3 ♥ K 7 ♦ Q J 10 5 4 ♣ —	N W E S	♠ 6 2 ♥ A 10 9 8 3 2 ♦ 8 3 ♣ K 6 5
	♠ 9 ♥ Q 6 5 4 ♦ 7 ♣ J 10 9 8 7 4 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	1 ♥
Pass	1 ♠	Pass (!)	2 ♥
Pass	Pass	Dble.	Pass
Pass	Pass

North liked West's spade bid so much that he decided to keep quiet in the hope that the opponents' bidding would go merrily forward and that he would get the chance to double two or three spades. But when East took out the spade bid to two hearts, which was passed by South and West, North found himself in a rather embarrassing position. He might have bid three diamonds, but there was nothing constructive about such a bid. It would hardly coax any action from South, and if the diamonds were stacked in one opponent's hand, a sizable penalty would result. North was afraid to bid notrump with his singleton heart, and so, not wanting to be bilked entirely out of his "rock-crusher," he doubled.

Technically, of course, this was a business double, though North hoped it would be construed by South as a takeout double. South, however, could not dream that game at clubs would be ironclad, whereas he could and did feel that his two singletons and his heart holding certainly would result in the defeat of two hearts. As a matter of fact he was right: East-West did go down one trick, 100 points, but considering that North-South could have made game and rubber, this was scarcely satisfactory compensation.

North should not have attempted to trap—he should have doubled one spade. This would have been a takeout double, and South would have responded with his seven-card club suit. Then it would have been relatively easy to reach the sound contract of five clubs.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

THINK BEFORE YOU TRAP

"TRAPPING" is something of an art at the bridge table, and only the ablest tacticians should attempt it. Obviously, this advice applies specifically to such players as North in the following deal.

South dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠ A Q J 7 ♥ J ♦ A K 9 6 2 ♣ A Q 2
♠ K 10 8 5 4 3 ♥ K 7 ♦ Q J 10 5 4 ♣ —	N W E S	♠ 6 2 ♥ A 10 9 8 3 2 ♦ 8 3 ♣ K 6 5
	♠ 9 ♥ Q 6 5 4 ♦ 7 ♣ J 10 9 8 7 4 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	1 ♥
Pass	1 ♠	Pass (!)	2 ♥
Pass	Pass

North liked West's spade bid so much that he decided to keep quiet in the hope that the opponents' bidding would go merrily forward and that he would get the chance to double two or three spades. But when East took out the spade bid to two hearts, which was passed by South and West, North found himself in a rather embarrassing position. He might have bid three diamonds, but there was nothing constructive about such a bid. It would hardly coax any action from South, and if the diamonds were stacked in one opponent's hand, a sizable penalty would result. North was afraid to bid notrump with his singleton heart, and so, not wanting to be bilked entirely out of his "rock-crusher," he doubled.

Technically, of course, this was a business double, though North hoped it would be construed by South as a takeout double. South, however, could not dream that game at clubs would be ironclad, whereas he could and did feel that his two singletons and his heart holding certainly would result in the defeat of two hearts. As a matter of fact he was right: East-West did go down one trick, 100 points, but considering that North-South could have made game and rubber, this was scarcely satisfactory compensation.

North should not have attempted to trap—he should have doubled one spade. This would have been a takeout double, and South would have responded with his seven-card club suit. Then it would have been relatively easy to reach the sound contract of five clubs.

DARK STAR'S BROTHER

MIAMI (AP)—Dark Star, who handed Native Dancer his only setback in the 1953 Kentucky Derby, has a full brother in the Cain Hoy Stable barn at Hialeah. He is Star of Destiny, a prospect for the 1956 Derby.

Fungi and insects take their toll of seven billion dollars a year in the United States.

The distance from New York to San Francisco via the Straits of Magellan is 13,135 miles, compared with 5,262 miles through the Panama canal.

The population of the United States, which grew by 19 million between 1940 and 1950, is expected to grow another 25 million by the time the current decade ends in 1960.

Card of Thanks

We desire to extend our heartfelt thanks to all who aided and comforted us in our recent sad bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father, Frank L. Wilson. Especially do we thank the pallbearers, those who donated the use of their cars, those who sent floral offerings and the minister, Rev. C. K. Welch for his comforting words.

Card of Thanks

We desire to extend our heartfelt thanks to all who aided and comforted us in our recent sad bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father, Frank L. Wilson. Especially do we thank the pallbearers, those who donated the use of their cars, those who sent floral offerings and the minister, Rev. C. K. Welch for his comforting words.
Mrs. Frank L. Wilson & Family.

Volume Soars As General Advance Sweeps Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Volume soared to three million shares for the first time in four months as a general advance swept the stock market today.

The report from President Eisenhower's physicians that he could be active "for another five or ten years" was enough to pile up a batch of overnight orders.

In the initial splurge of buying prices leaped ahead from 1 to 6 points in leading issues and the ticker tape, which reports transactions, lagged behind by as much as three minutes.

But activity slackened gradually as the session wore on and prices softened as volume fell off. By the close the gains among key stocks ranged from 1 to about 3 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, which had gained $2.50 at noon, slipped back to a gain of $1.90 at the close. The industrials were up $3.30, the rails $1.50 and the utilities 40 cents.

Volume totaled 3,000,000 shares compared with 1,590,000 yesterday.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Lester G. Ketchum, Bessie May Ketchum, his wife, Elizabeth Stefanovich and John Stefanovich, her husband. Complainants. Vs. Jeanette Stearns, widow, Franklin G. Ketchum and Helen Ketchum, his wife. Respondents. No. 24428 Equity. In The Circuit Court for Allegany County, State of Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of Court for the sale of certain real estate located in Lonaconing, Allegany County, Maryland, which belonged to Joseph Myers, now deceased, and which property is described in the bill of complaint filed herein.

The bill alleges that the said property is now owned by the following tenants in common, all of full age, vis: Lester G. Ketchum, intermarried with Bessie May Ketchum, their address being 23 North Park Street, Cambridge, New York; Franklin G. Ketchum, intermarried with Helen Ketchum, their address being 37 Gray Avenue, Greenwich, New York; Jeanette Stearns, widow, whose address is 125 Carey Avenue, Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania; and Elizabeth Stefanovich, intermarried with John Stefanovich, their address being 4379 Wickham Avenue, Bronx, New York, N. Y. All of full age and non-residents of Maryland.

That the said property is described as Beginning at what was known as a large sugar tree on the edge of Georges Creek, and running thence North 32 degrees 30 minutes West 99 feet; thence North 41 degrees East 45 feet; thence South 48 degrees East 62 feet; thence South 37 degrees 30 minutes East 70 feet to the end of the third line of the second parcel of land conveyed unto Joseph Myers; thence leaving the lines of the first parcel conveyed unto him and reversing the third, second and first lines of the second parcel as follows; South 36 degrees 30 minutes East 7 feet; thence South 75 degrees 30 minutes West 70½ feet; thence North 31 degrees 30 minutes, West 7 feet to the place of beginning, being said sugar tree located 15 feet, more or less above the bridge over Georges Creek.

That the said property is not susceptible to be divided in kind among those entitled thereto without loss or injury to them and prays the Court to decree a sale thereof for the purpose of distributing the proceeds between the parties according to their respective interests therein.

It is thereupon this 14th day of February, 1956, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Complainants by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, once in each of four successive weeks before the 15th day of March, 1956, give notice to the absent Respondents, Jeanette Stearns, widow, residing at 125 Carey Avenue, Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, and Franklin G. Ketchum and Helen Ketchum, husband and wife, residing at 37 Gray Avenue, Greenwich, New York. All of full age and non-residents of the State of Maryland, of the object and substance of this bill and warning them to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 31st day of March, 1956, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Volume Soars As General Advance Sweeps Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Volume soared to three million shares for the first time in four months as a general advance swept the stock market today.

The report from President Eisenhower's physicians that he could be active "for another five or ten years" was enough to pile up a batch of overnight orders.

In the initial splurge of buying prices leaped ahead from 1 to 6 points in leading issues and the ticker tape, which reports transactions, lagged behind by as much as three minutes.

But activity slackened gradually as the session wore on and prices softened as volume fell off. By the close the gains among key stocks ranged from 1 to about 3 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, which had gained $2.50 at noon, slipped back to a gain of $1.90 at the close. The industrials were up $3.30, the rails $1.50 and the utilities 40 cents.

Steels, rails, aircrafts, motors, copper stocks and oils were in the forefront.

Volume totaled 3,000,000 shares compared with 1,590,000 yesterday.

More than 50 per cent of Malaya's tin production is obtained by dredging.

New Wiley Ford Bridge Possible During 1957

Plan Is Contingent On Joint Financing

Senator Charles M. See has been advised the Maryland State Roads Commission plans to replace the inadequate Wiley Ford Bridge during the 1957 construction season, contingent upon certain points which must be cleared up before the project can be a reality.

The information was contained in a letter from Russell H. McCain, SRC chairman, who listed the points as:

The SRC must have sufficient funds to pay its share of the cost of the construction of the new bridge. McCain said the commission hopes a Federal Aid Highway Bill will pass the second session of the 84th Congress, adding that if it does "we feel that our financial picture will be such that this project can be undertaken."

Agreements Needed

It will be necessary to work out a proper agreement with the State of West Virginia, McCain said, since this bridge across the Potomac River connects Maryland and West Virginia, and it has been the practice over the years that when a new bridge is built across the Potomac between Maryland and West Virginia the cost of the structure is shared equally by the two states.

It will also be necessary, McCain said, to come to an agreement with the City of Cumberland whereby the city would assume responsibility for the improvement of the necessary approach road to the new bridge.

The SRC chairman said it is recognized the present Wiley Ford bridge is inadequate for the traffic that is using it, and should be replaced by a new structure just as promptly as possible.

Unfortunately, the project was not set up in the 12-year program, he added.

McCain also advised Sen. See on procedure which has been used in building bridges across the Potomac.

In all cases, he said, the bridges have been financed by Maryland and West Virginia on a 50-50 basis.

The plan was used, he said, on the modern bridge between Keyser and McCoole and for the Cumberland-Ridgeley and Kitzmiller bridges.

On the Hancock Bridge, West Virginia paid for the approach road on the West Virginia side and the structure to the center of the river. From there northward and over Route 40, the obligation was Maryland's.

Sen. See said the cost of the bridge, including the approaches, has been roughly estimated at $400,000 for West Virginia, $280,000 for Maryland and $100,000 for the City of Cumberland.

Sen. Ralph J. Bean, Moorefield, has headed the drive in West Virginia for the span and has asked the SRC of that state to give the proper priority to the project.

Sen. See said he hopes citizens in nearby West Virginia will work to make the construction a reality.

Sounding Off

These two instrumental groups will be featured in tonight's concert by the Municipal Concert Band at 8 p. m. in Fort Hill High School auditorium. At top, a trombone quartet composed of Willis Robertson, Raymond Boore, Howard Andrews and Darrell Zeller tunes up for "Two Pairs of Slippers," and lower photo shows trumpet trio of Paul Stair, Frank Munson and Albert Kerns polishing off "The Three Kings." Tonight's concert, first of the winter season for the 38-piece band, will be absolutely free, and no offering will be taken, said W. Valgene Routch, conductor. A varied program of 16 selections will be presented.

Garrett County Included In Rural Development Plan

The selection of Garrett County as one of the pilot counties for the government's Rural Development Program was announced yesterday by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde.

Rep. Hyde said he was certain the federal-state-local cooperative effort will prove of benefit to the county and the nation.

One approach to the problem of soft spots in the overall high level economy, RDP's purpose is to raise the income level of the small farm and to provide the technical help and facilities.

The plan, Rep. Hyde added, is also designed to assist in the diversification of income producing activities.

He explained his bill to provide for an area assistance program is also designed to aid communities with chronic unemployment problems.

The aim, he said, is to achieve lasting improvement through creation of new employment opportunities.

It would augment RDP, he said, and assist in the establishment of new industries.

The Sixth District representative also reported he is continuing his efforts through another bill for an enlarged program of research into the uses of coal and the creation of new markets.

Legislation relieving the small business operator of some of the excessive tax burden he carries would benefit this Congressional district, Rep. Hyde said, adding his bill to increase the surtax exemption from $25,000 to $50,000 would provide a margin of safety for the small merchant.

Rep. Hyde said he conferred recently with Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay and National Park Secretary Conrad L. Wirth concerning the future of the Potomac River Valley.

"Both are able public servants," he reported, " and aware of our problems."

Rep. Hyde said he is convinced a satisfactory and integrated program for the use of the C & O Canal will be worked out.

He reported recently that he is continuing his fight for the construction of the C & O Parkway between Hancock and Cumberland.

Citizens Group Backs Proposal For Playfield

A citizens committee exploring the possibilities of building a baseball field here last night endorsed the City Recreation Board's proposal to the Mayor and Council for a playfield, according to Robert E. Pence, city rec director.

Pence said the board's recommendation calls for land in Southview Addition to be purchased and developed as a playfield.

A playfield, he said, would include a baseball field, several softball diamonds, a battery of tennis, horseshoes and shuffleboard courts and facilities for outdoor basketball and volleyball.

The recreation center would also include an area for lawn games such as croquet and archery, a playground for small children, special fields for girls and women's activities and ample parking space for all events.

Fred Barnard was named chairman of a committee to discuss the recommendation with Mayor Roy W. Eves, Pence said.

The annual training meetings were inaugurated in 1943.

Gas Tax Plan For Port Unit Is Abandoned

Corporate Income Levy May Be Hiked

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 15 (AP) — The legislative subcommittee studying a proposed state port authority today abandoned plans to finance it with a gasoline tax increase and also capitulated to a major Anne Arundel County demand.

The group adopted by voice vote a motion by Del. Lee (D-Montgomery) that it "vacate" that clause in the bill which provides that the port authority be financed by a three-tenths cent per gallon increase in the State tax in gasoline.

It didn't decide what would be substituted but seemed to be leaning heaviest toward a proposal to increase the corporate income tax from 4½ to 5 per cent.

The subcommittee, made up from the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means committees, planned to take up this question tomorrow.

Advertising Tax Hearing

An alternative method it is considering is a proposal to include newspaper, radio and billboard advertising in the retail sales tax. Such advertising now is exempt. A public hearing on the bill is slated for 11 a.m. tomorrow.

It also is considering a bill to increase the State's take from horse racing as a financing clause for the authority which would require an estimated 2 million dollars a year for its work in promoting and expanding State commerce through the port of Baltimore.

The subcommittee yielded to Anne Arundel County's demand that it be given full taxing power over any county property the authority might acquire.

This came after a threat by Del. Kirkland (D-Anne Arundel) that the county would ask to be excluded from the measure if the amendment wasn't adopted.

Sen. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel) wouldn't agree to go along with the legislation even with this revision. He stalked from the committee room when the committee attempted to pin him down on it, and the vote to acquiesce was taken later.

These two moves seemed to remove the major obstacles to the bill although there still remained objections from Anne Arundel County and possibly some others over methods by which the governor would name the authority's five members.

Other Hearings, Activity

The port action came while the finance committees themselves held a public hearing on a bill to boost school teacher salaries by $400 a year throughout the state-guaranteed scale.

The Senate's major afternoon action was to pass and send to the House a bill to postpone for a third year the scheduled increase in motor vehicle license fees already twice postponed.

Its bill to permanently repeal these increases, which were enacted in 1953 but since found unnecessary, was sent back to committee for a technical amendment.

The House held a quick session to receive legislation and then recessed to enable its grand inquest into the Baltimore transit strike to continue.

In a 20-minute session tonight, the House passed three bills, two of them designed to set up an absentee voting system for all qualified residents. The third would include in the new State withholding income tax program District of Columbia residents who work in Maryland.

World Day Of Prayer Tomorrow

Prayer leaders from various churches will lead their group in praying for specific needs for different countries where Nazarene missionaries are laboring.

Area churches participating in this service are Cumberland Bethel, Oakland, Frostburg, Hancock, Moscow, Bedford, St. Clairsville, Ryot and Hyndman.

Mrs. Elmer Parsons is missionary president of the host church and Mrs. Joseph Hoopengardner is chairman of the Cumberland Zone of the Nazarene Foreign Missionary Society.

The public is invited.

Legion Post Endorses Plan For Parkway

Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, at the regular post meeting Tuesday night, unanimously endorsed the C & O Canal Parkway plan, and authorized a resolution calling upon federal and state authorities to proceed with the proposal.

The action of the local post followed the endorsement of Mountain District American Legion meeting in Lonaconing Sunday. At that time, the district legionnaires also unanimously approved action by all posts to further the project.

According to Howard P. Loughrie, post commander here, Post 13 also endorsed the candidacy of John Sloan for department commander.

Legionnaires also viewed a film shown by Army recruiters entitled "Communism."

Braddock Farms Water Group Is Appointed

Joint Meeting Is Planned Tomorrow

Residents of the Braddock Farms section met last night at LaVale Fire Hall with County and State Health Department officials in an effort to secure a safe and sufficient water supply for families in that area.

A five-man committee was appointed and will meet Friday night at 7:30 o'clock with Health Department officials and representatives of the LaVale Sanitary Commission to work out ways, costs and other means of getting a sanitary water supply for some 50 families of the area.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health department, said the water being used is contaminated, unfit for human consumption, and is available in insufficient quantities.

Appointed to meet tomorrow night at the Union Street Training Center are Claude O. Twigg, Paul E. Crowe, Floyd L. Valentine, Herbert H. Jewell and James E. Judy, who will confer with the health department officials and members of the LaVale group.

Outlines Situation

During last night's meeting Dr. Frantz explained the contamination of the water supply, what was causing the contamination and what measures have to be taken to correct the unsanitary situation.

Later in the meeting J. B. Dowling, chief sanitarian of the county health department, elaborated on pollution, the facts and background in the case and the cause of pollution.

He also explained who should shoulder the present responsibility. Three suggestions were outlined to the 54 persons present, including 47 property owners of the section. They are:

(1) By the group's appointing a committee of five to work with the State and County Health Department and the LaVale Sanitary Commission.

(2) By trying to get the local Sanitary Commission to do the legal work on these problems, and

(3) By trying to get a safe water supply for this section as soon as possible. There are ways this can be accomplished within 24 to 48 hours but there are complications.

Is Cooperative

The legal aspects of the situation were explained by Gorman E. Getty, attorney of the County Commissioners. Representing the State Health Department was P. C. Dodge.

The water supply consists of a reservoir and pipeline system owned originally by James Clark and later by the James Clark Distilling Company.

When the area was developed, water rights were granted to most of those who bought land. The system is being operated as a cooperative by the Braddock Farms Improvement Association.

Last night's meeting was called as a result of an inspection of the reservoir by Dowling February 2. Samples taken by Dowling, disclosed during bacteriological examination, both coliform and escherichia coli were present.

Pending the removal of the source of contamination, Dr. Frantz said the water should be boiled or chlorine added.

Coin Club Formed By Rec Department

The City Recreation Department's Coin Club was formed last night with 20 collectors present.

Robert E. Pence, recreation director, said the next meeting will be held March 14 at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall.

Tentative plans call for the election of officers at this meeting.

An experienced coin collector will be asked to speak at the March 14 session and officials will look into the availability of a movie on coin collecting.

Members of the former Western Maryland Coin Club will be invited to join the newly formed club.

Man Killed In Quarry Accident

Robert Whitehair Is Electrocuted

A 33-year-old Corriganville man was electrocuted last night while working at the silica sand quarry operation of the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company near Corriganville.

Robert Arthur Whitehair was pronounced dead on arrival at Sacred Heart Hospital at 9:15 p. m. Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy medical examiner for Allegany County, said death was due to electrocution.

Dr. Deming said Whitehair, a millwright at the quarry, had been called to work at about 7:30 p. m. yesterday because some equipment trouble had developed.

He was checking an electrical short circuit when the accident happened.

Dr. Deming said Whitehair had climbed a ladder placed against a steel pipe pole. He shook the wire with one hand and apparently touched a grounded object with the other.

He tumbled from the ladder with severe burns on both hands. Two fellow workers, William M. Joyce of 153 West Main Street, Frostburg, and Herbert Long of Mt. Savage, took him to the hospital.

He was born September 8, 1922 at Horse Shoe Run, Preston County W. Va., a son of Roy and Bertha (Snyder) Whitehair. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Glenna Whitehair.

The body is at the Ziegler Funeral Home in Hyndman, Pa.

Marine Reserve Will Train At Naval Depot

To Spend Two Weeks In Indiana

The Sixth Special Infantry Company, USMCR, will take 1956 summer training at the Naval Ammunition Depot, Crane, Ind.

Major Patsy Algieri, commanding officer of the local unit, announced yesterday that the training period will be June 16-30.

Vacancies in the unit are available and new members will be eligible for the training.

The depot covers an area of approximately 100 square miles in the south-central part of Indiana. A large lake on the reservation provides recreational facilities for the reservists.

Indianapolis, Ind., and Louisville, Ky., are located in the general area. The training available to the local unit will center upon guard duty and security aspects of a large storage installation of the type located at Crane.

Major Algieri pointed out that the Marine Barracks at the depot will be host and help conduct the training.

Besides security subjects, the unit will have a full schedule of infantry work and rifle marksmanship.

Due to an increased training program this winter, it is hoped that the local reservists can obtain better results on the rifle and pistol ranges.

Permit Is Secured For Dairy Project

The Queen City Dairy, Inc., secured a permit from the City Engineer yesterday for a two-story addition to its headquarters on South Mechanic Street.

The 30 by 104 foot structure will be built of concrete block and brick construction and is estimated to cost $40,000.

The addition will be built by the John I. Vandegrift Company, which also will tear down the addition to the old Tri-State Milk Company.

Mahoney Forces Work To Spike Tydings Draft

Birmingham Claims No Rift In Backers

[By The Associated Press]

George P. Mahoney's headquarters worked Wednesday to spike the "draft Tydings" bubble amid indications that former Sen. Millard E. Tydings helped father the appeal that he enter the Democratic Senate fight.

A Talbot County Democratic leader has made public a letter he said he received from Tydings late last month suggesting that such a movement "might put a complete crimp in the Mahoney candidacy."

Mahoney's headquarters, meanwhile, has issued:

1. A statement by Michael J. Birmingham, chief of the Baltimore County commissioners and a leading Mahoney adviser, claiming that Mahoney backers "are more solid than ever."

2. A telegram from C. William Hetzer, chairman of the Washington County State Central Committee saying "no prospective or present primary opposition or other development has or will diminish your (Mahoney's) widespread and enthusiastic local support."

3. A telegram from Rudolf Carrico, Charles County State Central Committee chairman, pledging that the committee's endorsement "will remain firm."

4. And a telegram from Martin L. Sutton, Caroline County committee chairman, offering similar aid and comfort.

Faction Backs Mahoney

In addition, the independent Democratic faction of Kent County—where the Tydings move first started — announced late Wednesday its endorsement of Mahoney for the Senate nomination.

Kent County's organization Democrats, including every elected public official except the Republican sheriff, announced their support of Tydings last Saturday.

The Tydings letter was read to the Talbot County Board of County Commissioners Tuesday by William E. Lednum. The letter began with an acknowledgment of Lednum's offer of support for Tydings, made last Sept. 1.

"Now the following may not be feasible, but if it is, it might help considerably to clarify the atmosphere.

"If you feel that all the members of the State Central Committee of Talbot, together with the endorsement . . . of others, you might then approach, were to endorse my candidacy for the Senate . . . it might bring about a situation where one of two things would happen.

"One, that it would put a complete crimp in the Mahoney candidacy and, two, it would help create a situation where either myself or some other candidate we could all be for would come out. . . .

"I am only giving you a suggestion. My fear and the fear of many others who have very powerful political support is that if Mahoney is nominated (U.S. Sen. John Marshall) Butler will probably beat him. . . .

Cites Local Possibilities

"This sentiment is borne out by a conference held by a group of ten men who are leaders in their respective political units.

"Very confidentially, Mike Prendergast of Allegany County (a weekly newspaper publisher) . . . has begged me in numerous letters to become a candidate. He was Mahoney's main backer in his previous campaign in Allegany. This time he is completely off of him.

"Furthermore, Bill (former Atty. Gen. William C.) Walsh let the State Central Committee of Allegany endorse Mahoney on the supposition that no other person would

New Wiley Ford Bridge Possible During 1957

Plan Is Contingent On Joint Financing

Senator Charles M. See has been advised the Maryland State Roads Commission plans to replace the inadequate Wiley Ford Bridge during the 1957 construction season, contingent upon certain points which must be cleared up before the project can be a reality.

The information was contained in a letter from Russell H. McCain, SRC chairman, who listed the points as:

The SRC must have sufficient funds to pay its share of the cost of the construction of the new bridge. McCain said the commission hopes a Federal Aid Highway Bill will pass the second session of the 84th Congress, adding that if it does "we feel that our financial picture will be such that this project can be undertaken."

Agreements Needed

It will be necessary to work out a proper agreement with the State of West Virginia, McCain said, since this bridge across the Potomac River connects Maryland and West Virginia, and it has been the practice over the years that when a new bridge is built across the Potomac between Maryland and West Virginia the cost of the structure is shared equally by the two states.

It will also be necessary, McCain said, to come to an agreement with the City of Cumberland whereby the city would assume responsibility for the improvement of the necessary approach road to the new bridge.

The SRC chairman said it is recognized the present Wiley Ford bridge is inadequate for the traffic that is using it, and should be replaced by a new structure just as promptly as possible.

Unfortunately, the project was not set up in the 12-year program, he added.

McCain also advised Sen. See on procedure which has been used in building bridges across the Potomac.

In all cases, he said, the bridges have been financed by Maryland and West Virginia on a 50-50 basis.

The plan was used, he said, on the modern bridge between Keyser and McCoole and for the Cumberland-Ridgeley and Kitzmiller bridges.

On the Hancock Bridge, West Virginia paid for the approach road on the West Virginia side and the structure to the center of the river. From there northward and over Route 40, the obligation was Maryland's.

Sen. See said the cost of the bridge, including the approaches, has been roughly estimated at $400,000 for West Virginia, $280,000 for Maryland and $100,000 for the City of Cumberland.

Sen. Ralph J. Bean, Moorefield, has headed the drive in West Virginia for the span and has asked the SRC of that state to give the proper priority to the project.

Sen. See said he hopes citizens in nearby West Virginia will work to make the construction a reality.

Sounding Off

These two instrumental groups will be featured in tonight's concert by the Municipal Concert Band at 8 p. m. in Fort Hill High School auditorium. At top, a trombone quartet composed of Willis Robertson, Raymond Boore, Howard Andrews and Darrell Zeller tunes up for "Two Pairs of Slippers," and lower photo shows trumpet trio of Paul Stair, Frank Munson and Albert Kerns polishing off "The Three Kings." Tonight's concert, first of the winter season for the 38-piece band, will be absolutely free, and no offering will be taken, said W. Valgene Routch, conductor. A varied program of 16 selections will be presented.

Garrett County Included In Rural Development Plan

The selection of Garrett County as one of the pilot counties for the government's Rural Development Program was announced yesterday by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde.

Rep. Hyde said he was certain the federal-state-local cooperative effort will prove of benefit to the county and the nation.

One approach to the problem of soft spots in the overall high level economy, RDP's purpose is to raise the income level of the small farm and to provide the technical help and facilities.

The plan, Rep. Hyde added, is also designed to assist in the diversification of income producing activities.

He explained his bill to provide for an area assistance program is also designed to aid communities with chronic unemployment problems.

The aim, he said, is to achieve lasting improvement through creation of new employment opportunities.

It would augment RDP, he said, and assist in the establishment of new industries.

The Sixth District representative also reported he is continuing his efforts through another bill for an enlarged program of research into the uses of coal and the creation of new markets.

Legislation relieving the small business operator of some of the excessive tax burden he carries would benefit this Congressional district, Rep. Hyde said, adding his bill to increase the surtax exemption from $25,000 to $50,000 would provide a margin of safety for the small merchant.

Rep. Hyde said he conferred recently with Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay and National Park Secretary Conrad L. Wirth concerning the future of the Potomac River Valley.

"Both are able public servants," he reported, " and aware of our problems."

Rep. Hyde said he is convinced a satisfactory and integrated program for the use of the C & O Canal will be worked out.

He reported recently that he is continuing his fight for the construction of the C & O Parkway between Hancock and Cumberland.

Citizens Group Backs Proposal For Playfield

A citizens committee exploring the possibilities of building a baseball field here last night endorsed the City Recreation Board's proposal to the Mayor and Council for a playfield, according to Robert E. Pence, city rec director.

Pence said the board's recommendation calls for land in Southview Addition to be purchased and developed as a playfield.

A playfield, he said, would include a baseball field, several softball diamonds, a battery of tennis, horseshoes and shuffleboard courts and facilities for outdoor basketball and volleyball.

The recreation center would also include an area for lawn games such as croquet and archery, a playground for small children, special fields for girls and women's activities and ample parking space for all events.

Fred Barnard was named chairman of a committee to discuss the recommendation with Mayor Roy W. Eves, Pence said.

Gas Tax Plan For Port Unit Is Abandoned

Corporate Income Levy May Be Hiked

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 15 (AP) — The legislative subcommittee studying a proposed state port authority today abandoned plans to finance it with a gasoline tax increase and also capitulated to a major Anne Arundel County demand.

The group adopted by voice vote a motion by Del. Lee (D-Montgomery) that it "vacate" that clause in the bill which provides that the port authority be financed by a three-tenths cent per gallon increase in the State tax in gasoline.

It didn't decide what would be substituted but seemed to be leaning heaviest toward a proposal to increase the corporate income tax from 4½ to 5 per cent.

The subcommittee, made up from the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means committees, planned to take up this question tomorrow.

Advertising Tax Hearing

An alternative method it is considering is a proposal to include newspaper, radio and billboard advertising in the retail sales tax. Such advertising now is exempt. A public hearing on the bill is slated for 11 a.m. tomorrow.

It also is considering a bill to increase the State's take from horse racing as a financing clause for the authority which would require an estimated 2 million dollars a year for its work in promoting and expanding State commerce through the port of Baltimore.

The subcommittee yielded to Anne Arundel County's demand that it be given full taxing power over any county property the authority might acquire.

This came after a threat by Del. Kirkland (D-Anne Arundel) that the county would ask to be excluded from the measure if the amendment wasn't adopted.

Sen. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel) wouldn't agree to go along with the legislation even with this revision. He stalked from the committee room when the committee attempted to pin him down on it, and the vote to acquiesce was taken later.

These two moves seemed to remove the major obstacles to the bill although there still remained objections from Anne Arundel County and possibly some others over methods by which the governor would name the authority's five members.

Other Hearings, Activity

The port action came while the finance committees themselves held a public hearing on a bill to boost school teacher salaries by $400 a year throughout the state-guaranteed scale.

The Senate's major afternoon action was to pass and send to the House a bill to postpone for a third year the scheduled increase in motor vehicle license fees already twice postponed.

Its bill to permanently repeal these increases, which were enacted in 1953 but since found unnecessary, was sent back to committee for a technical amendment.

The House held a quick session to receive legislation and then recessed to enable its grand inquest into the Baltimore transit strike to continue.

In a 20-minute session tonight, the House passed three bills, two of them designed to set up an absentee voting system for all qualified residents. The third would include in the new State withholding income tax program District of Columbia residents who work in Maryland.

Braddock Farms Water Group Is Appointed

Joint Meeting Is Planned Tomorrow

Residents of the Braddock Farms section met last night at LaVale Fire Hall with County and State Health Department officials in an effort to secure a safe and sufficient water supply for families in that area.

A five-man committee was appointed and will meet Friday night at 7:30 o'clock with Health Department officials and representatives of the LaVale Sanitary Commission to work out ways, costs and other means of getting a sanitary water supply for some 50 families of the area.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health department, said the water being used is contaminated, unfit for human consumption, and is available in insufficient quantities.

Appointed to meet tomorrow night at the Union Street Training Center are Claude O. Twigg, Paul E. Crowe, Floyd L. Valentine, Herbert H. Jewell and James E. Judy, who will confer with the health department officials and members of the LaVale group.

Outlines Situation

During last night's meeting Dr. Frantz explained the contamination of the water supply, what was causing the contamination and what measures have to be taken to correct the unsanitary situation.

Later in the meeting J. B. Dowling, chief sanitarian of the county health department, elaborated on pollution, the facts and background in the case and the cause of pollution.

He also explained who should shoulder the present responsibility. Three suggestions were outlined to the 54 persons present, including 47 property owners of the section. They are:

(1) By the group's appointing a committee of five to work with the State and County Health Department and the LaVale Sanitary Commission.

(2) By trying to get the local Sanitary Commission to do the legal work on these problems, and

(3) By trying to get a safe water supply for this section as soon as possible. There are ways this can be accomplished within 24 to 48 hours but there are complications.

Is Cooperative

The legal aspects of the situation were explained by Gorman E. Getty, attorney of the County Commissioners. Representing the State Health Department was P. C. Dodge.
